TO HAVE BEATTIE ON STAND MONDAY

Judge Reluctlantly Adjourned Court Earlier Yesterday on That Account.

BINFORD GIRL IN THE CASE

Prosecution Twitted for Not Having Introduced Her—Sharp Tilt Between Counsel—Consideration for Jury—Witnesses

Chesterfield Court House, Va., Sept. 2.—Henry Clay Beattie, Jr., who today was to have told to the 12 men, in whoe hands his life hangs in the balance, the story of the murder of his young wife on the Midlothian turnpike last July, will not go on the witness stand to testify in his own behalf until Monday when the climax of the trial is expected and the case of the defense brought to a close

It was with reluctance that Judge Watson, who is hearing the case, granted a petition of Beattie's counsel for an adjournment today earlier than usual without having placed Henry Beattie on the stand as had been promised. The postponement was ordered to permit the accused man and his counsel to have a final conference over Sunday. In granting the delay, Judge Watson asked the indulgence of the jury for the apparent prolongation of the case but assured them that he would hold sessions both day and night next week, if necessary, in order to bring the trial to an early close. It seemed probable tonight that the case might be in the hands of the jury not later than the middle of next week.

Only two important witnesses faced the jury today, Charles K. Kestleberg and William H. Sampson, and with the exception of their testimony the day's proceedings were quite featureless. A sharp exchange between the opposing counsel toward the end of the day revealed the fact that Beulah Binford, the so-called 'girl in the case," might go on the witness stand before the trial ended. It came after a sarcastic remark by one of the defense's counsel when Sampson had testified concerning the prisoner's relations with the Binford girl.

"You were summoned by the prosecution too, were you not?" asked Harry M. Smith, Jr., of the defense, addressing Sampson.

"Yes," was the reply. "But never was called to the stand by them."

"That makes no difference," interjected Prosecutor Wendenburg.

"Oh, yes it does," snapped Mr Smith. "You have kept Beulah Binford in jail now for a month and did not put her on the stand."

"Well, we'll see about that," said Mr. Wendenburg with a smile intimating that the Binford girl might be put on the stand in rebuttal next week.

"You didn't dare to put her on in the examination in chief, however," said Mr. Smith quickly, before Judge Watson interferred and put an end to the discussion.

It has become evident that the purpose of the commonwealth in withholding the Binford girl from the stand has been to await the testimony of the prisoner himself regarding the girl whom the prosecution points as to the motive for the murder of Mrs. Beattie.

The intention of the commonwealth, it was admitted tonight, is to confront the accused some time next week with the Binford girl to contradict certain statements which, it is expected Beattie will make when he is on the stand if he clings to the story he told at the coroner's inquest.

The most dramatic moment of the trial, however, is expected to be reached when the commonwealth confronts the two cousins, Paul and Henry, with one another and the prosecution puts forth its questions concerning the alleged purchase of the gun by Paul and its supposed transfer to Henry.

Another tale of the mysterious man with the shot gun was introduced today by F. K. Clements. He declared the man had a "whitish" beard, thereby adding a third variety of color to the 'sandy and straggly" and "gray beards" alreayy testified to by other witnesses as having covered the face of the mysterious man. On cross-examination Prosecutor Wendenburg drew forth the admission that it was not an unusual sight to see a man with a gun on his shoulder during the hunting season or after its close when rabbits are plentiful in this surrounding woods.

Interesting testimony was presented by William H. Sampson, a chum of the accused and his companion on many pre-nuptial hours of dissipation. He declared Henry Beattie never really loved the Binford girl but when their relations were "accidntally renewed" shortly before the murder it was merely a passing escapade.

Charles H. Kestleberg, a wholesale meat merchant of Richmond, gave ar account of a motor ride he had taken on the Midlothian turnpike on the night of the murder, and presented information contradicing a theory of the prosecution that Mrs. Beattie was standing either on the running board of the machine or in the road when she was killed. He testified that the woman with him occupied such a position on the runing board

AMERICA'S GIFT TO GERMAN NATION

EMPEROR WILLIAM SPEAKS

German Ruler Expresses Fine Sentiment for People of United States. Congressman Bartholdt Presented Statue.

Berlin, Sept. 2.—The gift of the American people to the German Nation, a replica of the Washington statue of Gen. Baron Von Steuben, the Prussian-American general, was unveiled at Potsdam today in the presence of members of the German imperial family and a large assemblage of foreign diplomats and German statesmen. The monument was presented to Emperor William by Congressman Richard Bartholdt, of Missouri, and C. B. Wolffram, of New York, the special ambassador of President Taft.

Both Mr. Bartholdt, in his presentation speech and the Emperor, in accepting the gift, emphasized the blood relationship of the German-American peoples and the long friendship existing between the two countries. The unveiling of the statue was one of the features of this year's celebrations of the battle of Sedan, one of the principal national holidays in Germany.

The ceremony served also as a farewell to the American ambassador, Mr. David Jayne Hill, who immediately after the unveiling presented his letters of recall to Emperor William, who received him in private audience. At the same time Mrs. Hill was received by Empress Auguste Victoria.

It was a brilliant assemblage which gathered around the monument. The dedicatory exercises were short. After Emperor William had arrived and greeted his guests, Dr. Hill presented the special American ambassadors to his majesty. Representative Bartholdt in his speech of presentation said in part:

"Your Majesty: By direction of the President of the United States we have come across the ocean to fulfil the purport of a resolution unanimously adopted by the American Congress providing for the presentation to His Majesty, the German Emperor, and the German people of a statue of General von Steuben, a great German and erstwhile citizen and ehro of two continents, as a gift from the American people. If in the performance of this honorable mission I may be permitted to interpret the sentiments of the people of the United States, I would say, on behalf of President Taft's special embassy that the proferred donation is to be a pledge of peace and amity and a guarantee of the sincerity of the earnest hope, cherished by all Americans, that the effect of this ceremony may be to draw more and more clesely the bonds of traditional friendship and good will which, strenghtened as they are by the ties of blood, have always so happily united the great German Empire with the great Republic of the West, the United States of America.

"The name of Steuben will ever awaken patriotic memories beyond the ocean. Its bearer was the embodiment of German order and discipline and of that loyanty of which the poet says, "If it were not as old as the world, surely a German would have invented it.' He was not only the order-creating genius of the Colonial army, but also the indefatigable, though modest organizer of victories. In just appreciation of his great achievements a grateful people, nobly disregarding National distinctions, honored his memory by the erection, in front of the White House in Washington, of a monument which is to commemorate his valuable services as well as those rendered by the Germans generally to the cause of American independence. And today's celebration? It is verily a beautiful act of international courtesy, but may we not interpret the ready acceptance of this statue as a just and generous willingness, on the part of Steuben's old Fatherland and its exalted sovereign, to appreciate and honor those who by their conduct abroad have added lustre to the German name? Millions of hearts on the other side of the Atlantic which throb warmly on account of this dedication will rejoice exultantly at such interpretation.

"From the material to the political and ideal significance of today's act is but a step. The Peace President extends to the Peace Kaiser under whose reign the phrase, 'The Empire is the Peace,' has been verified, the hand of friendship for hearty co-operation in the peaceful solution of the great problems of civilization. And are there two other nations which, resting upon the tradition of undisturbed friendship and looking forward to a future of still closer relations, could more justly feel called upon to make common cause in the great humanizing tasks of our time, in the promotion of art and science and in all tendencies looking to the increased welfare of the people. We live in a time of international conciliation and have come to realize that peaceful development is of more transcedent importance than all that is now dividing the nations, and Germany's forty years of peace is an

HIS DARING TRICKY FLYING

Beachy Carried $2,900 Back to Curtiss Camp—Cummins Fell 300 Feet—Atwood Soon to Fly Across Continent.

Boston, Mass., Sept. 2.—During a tricky 30-mile southwest wind, which made other contestants remain in the hangars, Lncoln Beachey drove his Curtiss biplane 15 miles to the Blue Hill Observatory and return and later swept over the 33-mile Boston Light course, an easy winner of both events at the Harvard Boston aero meet at Squantum field today. With two other firsts and seconds in minor events this afternoon, Beachey brought $2,900 in prize money back to the Curtiss camp. Tonight he left for Wheeling, W. Va., to fill an engagement.

Beachey first captured the figure eight speed contest, making five laps in nine minutes, 24 seconds, then won the quick starting event, breaking the record of the field, his time being 8 3-5 seconds, compared with the ten seconds made by Tom Sopwith yesterday. The bomb dropping contest went to Harry N. Atwood. Beachey took second prize.

The first serious accident on Squantum field occurred this afternoon when Joseph A. Cummings, Jr., of East Baston, fell 300 feet into Dorcester Bay and narrowly escaped drowning. He suffered a severe cut on his face, but tonight was resting comfortably.

Harry N. Atwood announced today that on September 15th, he will begin his trans-continental flight from San Francisco to the Atlantic coast.

Concord, N. C., Sept. 2.—The case of Dr. L. N. Burleyson, a prominent physician of this city, charged with selling cocaine, was called in the the Recorder's court here this morning at 9:30 o'clock. Charles Johnson, the negro caught with the poisonous drug, declared that it was secured from one A. A. Scott, a small, boy man, who said that his home was in Charlotte. The case attracted a great deal of attention and long before the hour set for the trial to begin, the little room wheer the Recorder holds his court was crowded to overflowing.

BALLOONIST IS DROWNED

Parachute Failed to Work and Saginaw, Mich., Man Went Into Lake in Charlotte Last Night. Body Not Recovered.

Charlotte, N. C., Sept. 2.—His parachute failing to work at the proper moment, H. C. Brown, a balloonist of Saginaw, Mich., abandoned the usual method of descent tonight and dropped from his balloon several hundred feet into the shallow pond at Lakewood Park where he drowned before help could reach him.

Brown gave an ascension tonight with a pyrotechnical display at a high altitude. But when he started to descend the parachute failed and Brown dropped, falling into the pond. A number of boats put out to the rescue but the aviator disappeared before they could reach him. At midnight the body had not been recovered.

The balloon, the parachute attached, descended in the woods near the lake.

PROTECT AMERICAN INDIANS

Department at Washington to Instruct Nation's Wards in Sanitary Matters—Use Moving Pictures—Death Rate.

Washington, Sept. 2.—Determined to protect what remains of the few American Indians from rapid extinction by disease, which now threatens them, the Indian Office has decided to pursue a vigorous policy in improving hygienic conditions among the wards of the Nation.

Commissioner of Indian Affairs Valentine today declared that the application of modern preventive medica' methods to present conditions of Indian life was vital to their progress and to the usefulness of the educational, industrial and other activities in which the government is engaged on their behalf.

Among the means which the Indian official already has inaugurated in part and which it will push with vigor in its efforts to preserve the Indian from being entirely obliterated by tuberculosis, trachoma and other infectious diseases which are attacking them, are moving picture shows revealing to them proper and sanitary methods of living, house to house canvasses by physicians, open air sleeping at the Indian schools and sanatoriums.

The moving picture scheme is to give them by the comparative method pictures of the wrong way of living, followed by photographs showing the correct way. Dr. Ferdinand Schoemaker will have charge of this work and will travel from reservation to reservation giving his illustrated talks.

Reports show that the death rate among the Indians is two and a half times as great as among the white race; and that the average mortality from tuberculosis is 256 per cent. higher for Indians than for whites. Hence the Indian bureau's determination to better these conditions.

During the past year the house-to-house campaign by physicians was started on the White Earth reservation in Minnesota, and with such good results that the work will be pushed. As a result of traveling over this reservation awakening the Indians to a realization of the dangers of tuberculosis and other infectious diseases and pointing how they might improve their living conditions, the agency physicians report that sanitary conditions have improved among fully half the Indians on the reservation and that "the Indians, instead of being reluctant to seek the physicians of their own accord, are now visiting the physicians' offices in a way that shows their real interest in their own physical condition and welfare."

The high death rate among the Indians has been due, it was explained, to the change a few years ago in their way of living and their inability to adjust themselves to frame and log houses in place of airy and easily moved tepees.

SEVEN DROWNED IN LAKE ERIE

Naptha Launch Run Down and Sunk by a Giant Barge.

VICTIMS TOLEDO OFFICIALS

Launch Party Had Started on Fishing Trip---Waters Searched in Vain to Recover Bodies. Collision at Night.

Toledo, O., Sept. 2.—The preparations for the celebration of Labor Day in this city were given a check today when the citizens stopped work and expressed their deep sympathy and many lent their aid in the search for the seven bodies of city officials and employes who met a tragic death by drowning early this morning when their little launch, a 35-foot craft, was rammed by the barge Philip Minch, hurling seven of the eight passengers to a watery grave. The drowned are:

Harry Batch, city councilman; Jas. Wisler, superintendent of waterworks; Thomas Purcell, fourth master mechanic at the waterworks plant; Fred Shane, secretary of public service; Director Cowell; William Blatt, waterworks inspector; William Carroll, bookkeeper at waterworks; Rudolph Yunker.

The accident occurred about 1:30 this morning, but word was not received in tne city until more than two hours later. Continually professional divers, policemen with grappling hooks and local river men have searched the waters of the bay all day, but in vain.

The party of eight men left a downtown dock at midnight for Kelley's Island in Lake Erie to fish until Monday night. They had proceeded out into Maumee bay, near its mouth. Seven of the party were above on the forward deck. What they were doing never will be known.

Mayer, the engineer who was below looking after the gasoline engine, was the one of the party to escape. Mayer declares he did not hear any signals sounded from the barge.

In seven homes the widows and children of the drowned men are being cared for by relatives and sympathetic neighbors.

Michael Mayer, engineer and part owner of the launch Nemo, is practically a physical wreck at his home after his terrible experience in the water following the collision. Though he fought dsperately for his life and only was rescued about an hour after the collision, Mayer recovered sufficiently toward the middle of the day to tell his story of his experiences.

"I did not see my companions for half an hour after we left the downtown dock on our way out to the lake." said Mayer. "I was attending the engine and the first I knew that another boat was near us was when I was knosked down by the force of the collision A heavy door of a closet fell over me and pinned me to the floor. I was stunned for a time. Water began rushing into the engine room and soon it was up to my neck. I tried several ways to get out and soon the launch parted in the mddle. The water was rough, but I grabbed one of the life preservers from our boat and succeeded in keeping afloat until the rescuers from the barke picked me up. I did not see my companions when the collision occurred. I heard some cries and think it was their shouts when the front of the giant stéel barge loomed up before them."

Capt. L. B. Cummings, of the Mnch, First Officer F. B. Cummings, his brother, were on the officer's bridge, August Swan at the wheel and Abner Busler was lookout. These men declared they sighted the launch about 15 minutes before the collision. They declare warning and passing signals were sounded, but no reply was received. They were steaming about nine miles an hour in the straight channel of the bay toward the mouth of the Maumee river.

Capt. Cummings was summoned by United States steamboat inspectors immediately and an investigation was begun. Coroner Henzeler also is investigating the collision with a view to fixing, if possible, the responsibility for the drownings. Capt. Cummings has been relieved of command of the barge Minch pending the investigation.

John R. Cowell, director of public service, and several other city employes had intended going with the party on the fishing trip and only gave up the idea late last night.

These Boys Will Pull the Crowd To League Park To-morrow.

Greensboro and Greenville Will Play Two Games in This City.

Old Wilmington Favorites Who Will be Greeted Again by Fans.

BERT KITE, Greenville.
Handling the Same Old Line.

DICK SMITH, Greenville.

NED DOAK, GREENVILLE.
Who Will Guard the Durham Bull.

The Greenville and Greensboro baseball teams, who have just rounded out a good year's work in the Carolina Association, are expected to arrive at noon today in order to get a day's rest before the two exhibition games to be played at League Park tomorrow morning and afternoon. As this will probably be the last games they will play this season, they of course, will each want the laurels of final victory, and it is a royal battle to the finish that may be expected in both games.

Manager Frank Doyle of the Greensboro team, writes that he will bring his entire team here and will have the usual line-up of men who have played together the entire sason, and came so very near having a show for the pennant in the Carolina League. He will have one or more former Wilmington boys in the line-up, which will make it all the more interesting.

Manager Stouch, of Greenville, brings his team, which includes about a half dozen old Wilmington players. While the Greenville team has lagged near the foot of the percentage column during the entire season, it can be attributed to a long streak of bad luck more than to any lack of winning ability on the part of the team or any members of it. In fact, several of the boys, who were with the Sailors formerly have been playing even better ball for Greenville than ever before, and it will be interesting to the local fans to note the improvement since they were seen last on the local lot. The probable line-up of the teams will be as follows:

Greensboro—Rickard, cf; Doyle, 2b; Fuller, 1b; Doak, C., 3b; Clapp, lf; Loman, rf; Carroll, ss; Stuart, c; Eldridge, Walters or Hausen, p.

Greenville—Lohr, lf; Sharp, 2b; Hoey, 1b; Smith, 2b; Goodman, rf; Doak, cf; Edwards, ss; Kite, c; Bussey, Griffin or Watson, p.

For the morning game Bussey will probably do the twirling for Greenville, backed by Bert Kite, and will be opposed by Eldridge, the star pitcher of the Greensboro team, and catcher Stuart. Six Sailors" are seen in the Greenville line-up as furnished by the manager, and their work will be watched with intense interest by the fans.

The morning game will be called at 10 o'clock and the afternoon game promptly at 3:30, in order to finish in time for the 7 o'clock train, on which some of the players will probably leave for their homes.

The general admission will be 25 cents with 15 cents additional for the grandstand, but ladies will be admitted free to the grandstand. The Tidewater Power Company will run special cars on convenient schedules for both the morning and afternoon games.

The patronage given these games tomorrow will undoubtedly have a strong bearing towards answering the question as to whether we will have professional baseball in Wilmington next season or not. A crowded grandstand at both the morning and afternoon games will be the "last straw" that will fully persuade certain ones to start early and often next year to get into professional company again with Wilmington, by again establishing the Eastern Carolina League, or obtaining a berth in the Carolina League, which there is strong prospects of having one or more vacant franchises. This is no hot air, and everyone who wishes to get Wilmington back on the map during the Summer of 1912 has a duty to perform in playing his quarter across tomorrow for one or more pasteboards of admittance to League Park. You'll get your money's worth and more too. Managers Stouch and Doyle both guarantee this, for we have their written statements that each manager fully intends to take both games. Every player on the respective teams has the same guess coming as these are their pinmoney games and the victors will get the price of the highest number of "malts." Bert Kite thinks you owe it to him to be there; Dick Smith will have the blues all Winter if you're not; Doak will never cross the Palmetto State line again if your seat is vacant, and Clapp, Carroll, Sharp, Hoey and Bussey will be highly indignant if you don't pay your respects to them after their long absence. All together now. Whoop 'em up, and we'll show you something to back up our statements about next February. Straight goods. We've got your number too, if you fool us.

Pittsburg, Sept. 2.—Pittsburg fans got their first look at the much heralded Marty O'Toole, in the second game of a double-header with St. Louis today, the local aspirants for the pennant incidentally dividing honors with the team from the banks of the Mississippi. Bresnahan's followers started out strong in the first game, and Max Carney, in middle field for Pittsburg failed to connect with a hot one that let in the tally for the inning. Several times a tie was threatened, but it did not seem to "take" and the game ended 4 to 8 for St. Louis. A holiday crowd had turned out for the double and in the hope of seeing the O'Toole man. Throughout the first game the crowd cried for him, continually, and the hope of seeing the Westerner kept many for the second game. When the "big fellow" went into the box at the call of the second game there was a demonstration that made the pitcher blush.

When he struck out the first man that faced him, he had won the crowd apparently, but when he struck out eight others he could have owned Forbes field for all the fans cared. O'Toole was steady throughout despite the trying situation. Not a single base on balls did he give, and only three hits were scored. The only run St. Louis made in the game was the result of a three-bagger by Mowry, and an out at first by Bliss.

WRIGHTSBORO TAKES TWO

Defeated Baracas and Giants on Their Own Grounds

With Boswell and Salling in the line-up Wrightsboro played two games with the Baracas yesterday, winning both games by a good margin. The score in the first game was 4 to 1 and the second 11 to 7. Considering the wet grounds it was indeed a well played game on both sides. In the second game the Wrightsboro boys made a garrisonian finish, for with the score standing seven to four against them they came to bat in the ninth and slugged the pill so effectively that they succeeded in shoving seven tallies across, winning the game by a large majority.

THREE DAY MEET THIS WEEK

Official Races at Highwood Park Race Track Wednesday, Thursday and Friday—Many Fast Horses are Entered.

Next Wednesday will usher in the second big trotting meet of the season at Highwood Park race track and probably over 30 of the best horses of North and South Carolina will contest for honors during Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

This meet will be an official one, under association rules, and purses are offered totalling the sum of $1,250. Members of the Wilmington Driving Association and other local turfmen are expecting to see more than 30 horses entered in the different events, and this estimate appears reasonable as there are already about 20 horses, not counting the local trotters, in the stables of the Driving Association at Highwood Park, under the care of their trainers, being gotten into shape for the struggle.

Aside from the owners of the horses the race is expected to draw many fans from all over this section of the State and also many from South Carolina. The boys from the Palmetto State never miss a chance of seeing their horses race and many of the South Carolina animals will be entered next week. In fact, it is likely that the Palmetto horses will be in the majority, although there will be quite a number of North Carolina trotters.

At the meet held in the earlier part of July the Tar Heel horses, most of them Wilmington animals, captured the majority of the money, and the South Carolinians are out for blood this time.

Although the track is in poor shape just now—a match race being postponed yesterday on account of the heaviness and muddiness—local horsemen are of the opinion that it will be in good condition before Wednesday, and, if necessary, the Driving Association will probably put men and teams to work on it to insure a good track. At the July meet the track was very fast and the visiting horsemen were favorably impressed with it. The track is what is known as a sand-clay track and dries out very quickly following a rain, and this fact points to a good racing condition Wednesday.

Trotting horses will be entered in the races from Wilmington, Latta, S. C.; Dillon, S. C.; Raleigh, N. C.; Bennettsville, S. C.; Marion, S. C.; Mullins, S. C.; Page's Mills, S. C.; Timmonsville, S. C., and probably other points from both States. Some of these horses are already here and others are expected to arrive tomorrow and Tuesday.

The Wilmington horses have been in the hands of Trainer McClellan all season now and he has them in fine shape at the present time. Local fans are firm in their convictions that the South Carolina horses will not get the major portion of the purses.

E. CAROLINA CHAMPIONSHIP.

Big Game Scheduled for Rocky Mount Labor Day.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Rocky Mount, N. C., Sept. 2.—The third game of the series between Wilson Baracas and the All City League team of Rocky Mount, will be played here Monday afternoon, Labor Day. This is the deciding game, Wilson having won the game at that city and Rocky Mount having won at home.

Interest over this game is at fever heat all over this section as this game is for the championship of Eastern Carolina. Wilson has been defeated in very few of its games this season and is considered one of the fastest amateur teams in the State, numbering among its players several classy minor league men and some star collegians. Rocky Mount should also be counted as one of the crack amateur organizations of this section.

Match Race Postponed

On account of the heaviness of the track at Highwood Park, caused by a rain which the town escaped, the special match race scheduled to be run yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock was postponed until some later time. The owners of the three horses who were to have contested for honors, Dan P., and Major Strong, of Marion, S. C., and Argot Prince, of Wilmington, have not yet agreed on a date for the race, but announcement will be made later. Quite a number of race "fans" rode out to the park yesterday afternoon with the expectation of seeing an exciting contest, but all they did see was a track several inches deep in mud and puddles of water standing all over the grounds.

She dropped it overboard from a Lond Island Sound steamer early in the Summer. Miss Dorsey identified the parasol by a monogram on the handle.

As the City League draws near to a close, the teams seem to be just rounding into shape and it is to be regretted that the league could not run on for a month or two longer, but next Saturday will see the final game except the play-off games, and it now seems that there will be none as the Coast Line has again demonstrated their superior ball playing ability by staying at the head of the percentage column throughout the second series, and will likely be awarded the championship, together with the trophy cup offered by the Tidewater Power Company.

The first game yesterday was thought by many to be the best seen yet on the lot, the game running for 16 innings before either side could put a tally across, the Y. M. C. A. being the lucky ones to do this in their half of the tenth. Whitehead, for the Infantry, allowed seven hits, but they were well scattered throughout the half score innings, blocking near-scores all through the game by his steady work. For the Associationites their premier pitcher, McEachern allowed olny three hits in the whole of the game, so it was utterly impossible to get runs across without anything to start them around. In the last half of the tenth inning the Triangle Boys got together and put one across as follows:

Grainger was granted free transportation and was advanced on Bergen's safety. Trust placed another one safely, crowding the corners. Jones died on first on an infield swat and Grainger was caught off third by double play, pitcher to first to catcher. Duls hit to short and Bergen scored on an error of this station, ending the game.

The Second Game.

The second game resulted in another walk-away for the Railroaders over the Boys' Brigade, by this victory clinching the championship for the season. Immediately at the beginning the Coast Line got down to business, putting three runs across in the first as follows:

Emerson ambled and stole second; Taylor struck out. Hines strolled and Terry swatted one of his famous two baggers, scoring Emerson and Hines, but was thrown out himself when he tried to make a new record for himself by taking one more than he had earned. Wright mosied and purloined second and Starritt singled scoring him. Wright went to second on the throw in and stole third but "Pomp" couuldn't see 'em and the round was over.

In the third inning the Brigade annexed a lone tally, when Burnett was hit by pitched ball. Moore was safe on fielder's choise, Burnett being thrown out on second. Moore stole and went to third on an error of catcher, scoring on Montgomery's single. Mintz struck out and Burnett singled and stole second. Watson walked and annexed another but Davis filed out.

In the fourth the Coast Line got another score when with one man down Green "made up" by hitting safely, and went to second on Bergen's out on first, scoring on an error of catcher. LeMoyne struck out. In the fifth they added the last tally, when after Emerson was down, Taylor got a pass and stole second. Hines was out on first, Taylor going on to third. Terry brought him in with a neat single and Wright ended it by skying. The game was called at the end of the eighth inning, score, five to one.

New York, Sept. 2.—Another bomb, the 17th within a month, was exploded here today in front of the butcher shop of Matteo Sarino, an Italian. The front of the building, which domiciled 18 families in the upper floors, was scarred, but nobody was hurt. The police have not decided whether the outrage was a case of black hand vengeance, another protest against the high price of meat, or a mixture of both.

GOTCH AND HACKENSCHMIDT

All in Readiness For Great Meet on Monday — The Odds

Chicago, Sept. 2.—Training ended, Gotch and Hackenschmidt tonight are just waiting.

The two giants of the wrestling mat who, on Monday afternoon, will clash in their world's championship match at the African League Baseball Park, completed conditioning themselves today. Neither did much work in the way of training. Gotch, the champion, merely tried to get up a good sweat, while Hackenschmidt spent a day of idleness save for a brisk run in the morning and a light exercise in the afternoon. Fear that Gotch would overdo his training has been the worry of the Iowan's camp. But the champion evidently knew what he was doing for never did a man, his admirers say, look in better condition for a championship contest than did Gotch as he lay on a rubbing table after his final workout.

Out in his camp on the shore of Lake Michigan, Hackenschmidt spent the day loafing, although he took a run in the morning and a few minutes of exercise later in the day. Trainers in the invader's camp declared he was in the finest possible condition and that his work was done.

Short walks in the morning is the programme mapped out for both Gotch and Hackenschmidt tomorrow. The balance of the day will be spent in absolute rest.

It was unofficially announced that Gotch's weight, after his work out today, was 207 and Jack Curley, Hackenschmidt's manager, said the Russian tipped the beam at 224, which is more than he ever has weighed for previous contests. Gotch's handlers plan to send him into the ring, weighing about 204 pounds. He will be heavier by eight pounds than when he defeated Hackenschmidt here three and a half years ogo.

Betting odds on Gotch took a sudden slump today following reports of the Iowan's superb condition. Early in the week even money wagers, or four to five odds were obtainable, but today the best price was three to five while Hackenschmidt ruled at 7 to 5. Betting, as a rule has been light, few wagers of any size having been reported.

ANGRY OVER SUNDAY GAMES.

Efforts to Revoke Charter of the Nashville Baseball Club.

Nashville, Tenn., Sept. 2.—The fight of the Men's Christian Union of Nasaville for the dissolution of the Nashville baseball team as a result of this season's Sunday games is up again.

Acting upon a petition signed by a number of citizens, Gov. Hooper, Attorney General Charles T. Cates, concurring, has directed Attorney General A. B. Anderson, of Davidson county, to institute proceedings to have the charter of the club declared forfeited. The action of Gov. Hooper and Gen. Cates was taken under section 168 of the Tennessee code, which provides that such suits can be brought by the Attorney General for the county, when directed to do so by the General Assembly or by the Governor and Attorney General of the State concurring.

DELGADO TAKES TWO.

Defeated Rabbit Drivers in Double-Header Contest.

The Delgado Firsts and the Rabbit Drivers met in mortal baseball combat again yesterday the former coming out after the count with two more victories added to their long list for the season. It was reported last night that the Drivers got tired 'long about the fifth inning of the second game and quit because the Delgado sluggers had taken all their marbles. The score in both games was a shut-out, the score in each affray being 7 to 0.

The batteries for Delgado were Hpe and Fryar and for the Hare Hunters Jacobs and Arnold. The Delgado boys seem to have a cinch on the "pennant for the season, but as they do not close their season till frost comes, some changes are liable to occur with a late Fall.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 2.—But for an early morning fog the Atlantic fleet now engaged in Fall maneuvers and mimic warfare off the Virginia coast today had clear weather for its second day's work of general practice. While the ships are too far from shore for observation the firing of guns can be distinctly heard from the coast. Today the vessels of the fleet fired at long range upon targets which had been towed out from Norfolk by the auxiliaries Panther, Celtic, Lebanon and Culgoa.

UNIQUE YACHT RACE.

Captains Sailed Each Others' Boats. Capt. E. A. Metts the Winner.

A unique yacht race was sailed over the course of the Carolina Yacht Club, in Banks Channel yesterday afternoon when the captains of the different boats drew the numbers out of the hat and no man was allowed to sail his own boat. The race was more for a test than anything else, in order to find out what the different boats would do in other than their owner's hands. The results of the race are as follows:

No. 69, by Capt. E. A. Metts, start 3:51, finish 5:57:08.

No. 67, by Capt. Geo. Davis, start 3:51, finish 6:01:24.

No. 68, by Capt. J. S. Brown, start 3:51; finish 6:04:20.

No. 65, by Capt. R. G. Rankin, Jr., start 3:51; finish 6:07:15.

No. 63, by Capt. J. VanB. Metts, start, 3:51; finish 6:07:45.

No. 66, by Capt. A. T. Williams, start 3:51; finish 6:08:20.

Tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock an open race will be sailed over the club course. This race will likely be witnessed by an unusually large crowd who will be spending Labor Day at the beach.

NEW WORLD'S RECORD

Bob Burman Made Two Miles in 1:37 87 Minutes

New York, Sept. 2.—Bob Burman, driving his Benz car, made a new world's record of 1:37:87 for two miles during the automobile races at the Brighton Beach motordrome today. He covered the first mile in 48.92, just one-fifth of a second behind his own record made over the same track last year. He hit up a tremendous pace in the second round and for the full two miles beat Ralp de Palma's time of 1.40:55 made last year at Syracuse.

Driving an Opel car from scratch in the free-for-all handicap, Burman won by a good margin from Hughie Hughes, in a Mercer car, repeating a victory he had scored over the same car and driver on even terms earlier in the afternoon.

Not an accident other than tire trouble occurred during the running of the nine events on the programme.

DO YOU PATRONIZE HOME INDUSTRIES?

Those of you who have been making your purchases away from Wilmington should think before patronizing mail order and houses away from home any further.

Who sympathized with you when your little girl was sick? Was it the mail order house?

Who carried you last winter when you were out of a job and had no money? Was it the mail order house or was it your home merchant?

When you want to raise money for the church or for some needy person in town, do you write to the mail order house, or do you go to your home merchant?

How much does the mail order house give towards keeping up sidewalks or paying the minister's salary?

When you were sick how many nights did the mail order house sit up with you?

When you had to raise money to pay your gas bill, did you get it from the mail order house or a home merchant or contractor?

When your loved one was buried, was it your home merchant who dropped the tear of sympathy and uttered the cheering word, or was it the mail order house?

EXCESSIVE RAINS IN ROBESON

Cotton is Badly Damaged—Railroad Schedules Disarranged—Making Lumber River Navigable—Other Lumberton News

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Lumberton, N. C., Sept. 2.—That the long dry spell in this section has been broken is a certainty. The rainfall for the week to 8 o'clock this morning was 6:39 inches. During the extreme hot and dry weather it looked like growing crops would be burned up, and were greatly injured. Now it looks like crops in many places might be washed away.

The heavy rains of the week will cause the loss of several thousand bales of cotton in this country. We heard one of the largest cotton farmers in this section make the statement yesterday morning that he counted 16 fresh forms or squares under one stalk which had fallen off the night before and he felt sure that he had lost at least 20 bales as a result of the rains this week. Those who expect to see a big cotton crop here this season had just as well get ready to be disappointed. Two weeks ago the outlook in this section for a good deal more cotton than was at one time expected was good, but the rains of the week have certainly cut it off. The heaviest rain of the year possibly, fell Thursday night when this section was visited by one of the severest electrical storms of the Summer. The rain fell in torrents, the rainfall for the 24 hours being 3.10. In many places we have heard of small bridges being washed away, and where only a few days ago everything was dry, the water was standing over large areas. During the storm Thursday night the electric lights were put out of business once or twice, and it was no use trying to use telephones. The V. & C. S. had a washout near Hope Mills and the train due here at 8:35 A. M. did not arrive until after 8 o'clock last night. However, the train from Elizabethtown to St. Paul's went up to the washout where passengers, mail and express were transferred and the train arrived here shortly before noon. The only passenger trains to arrive here on the Seaboard during the day were the morning and evening trains from Wilmington, both of which were on time. An engine with one coach and a baggage car was run from Maxton to Wilmington, passing here about noon. The R. & C. had no trouble.

The question of making Lumber river a navigable stream is being discussed. The distance from Lumberton to Georgetown, S. C., is 96 1-2 miles by the public road, while it is said to be 300 miles by water. Some years ago the writer took a trip down the river on a raft of timber running during the day and stopping at night. After floating down stream 2 1-2 days we left the raft and walked back to Lumberton in less than five hours. The Seaboard crosses the river five or six times between Lumberton and Alma. To make Lumber river navigable its going to take some of Uncle Sam's money, but with Senator Simmons behind the movement it would not surprise us before many years to see steamboats coming up. It would be impossible to estimate the benefit that would be derived by this whole section of the country if Lumber river should be improved so as to be made a navigable stream. It may take some time to do this but we have the faith to believe that it will be done.

It will be remembered that two or three months ago the freight and passenger station at Elrod on the Coast Line between Pembroke and Rowland, was destroyed by fire. Now it is reported that on the day before the fire a man pushed his buggy up under the shed of the building to protect it from the weather. The buggy was burned with the building and the owner wanted the railroad company to pay for it. He is like the man who had a cow to get sick and die, and then got help at night to place the body on the railroad so that the train would apparently kill it and he could recover damages of the company for killing the cow.

Mrs. A. L. Jones, of Fairmont, left here Thursday evening for Hot Springs, Ark., where she went to join her husband who has been there for some time being treated for rheumatism. From Hot Springs Mr. and Mr. and Mrs. Jones will go to Oklahoma where they will spend some time before returning home.

The brick work on the new Methodist church has been completed, and the carpenter's work is going on at a satisfactory rate. It is expected that this house of worship will be ready for use by th eNew Year.

Mr. George Warwick and family have moved from Barnesville to Lumberton where they expect to reside in the future. Mr. Warwick has taken a position with Mr. J. P. McNeill, on South Elm street.

A large number of friends were delighted to see Sheriff McNeill at his office Wednesday for the first time in nine weeks, he having been confined to his home on account of sickness. The sheriff is fast recovering and hopes to be in good health again soon.

There will be a called meeting of the Robeson County Rural Letter Carriers' Association here on Monday 4th, and it is earnestly desired of the president that every carrier attend. An invitation has been extended to the postmasters of the county to be present and meet with the carriers.

Rev. C. H. Durham, pastor of the First Baptist church, has returned from his vacation and will fill his regular appointments tomorrow morning and evening. Rev. E. M. Hoyle, pastor of the Methodist church, will preach tomorrow morning and evening at the usual hours. Rev. S. Weiss the pastor, will conduct services at the Gospel Tabernacle morning and evening.

So far this Summer Lumberton has had very few mosquitoes, but if they don't arrive in large numbers during the next few days, there is going to be a lot of people badly fooled.

As a time keeper, the clock on top of the Court House is a farce, and as an ornament it's no good. That clock needs to be doctored.

We were told this week of a gentleman in town who lost his temper while trying to talk to some one in the country over the 'phone at night. He could not get the party he wanted or could not hear them after the connection was made, and jerking the 'phone down sat it out on the porch, and went across the street to another 'phone where he notified the telephone company of what he had done. Now he has no 'phone at his residence and when he wishes to speak to anyone he just has to walk it.

Policeman Sam Strain, who resigned his position here to accept the position of chief of police of Rowland, left for that place Thursday to enter upon the discharge of his duties yesterday.

Mrs. H. H. Redfern and children, who have been spending some time in Anson county with relatives, returned home Thursday night——Mrs. W. H. Humphrey and son, Harold, returned yesterday from Red Springs where they have been visiting relatives——Mrs. Belle McMillan and daughtr, Miss Flora, and Miss Josie McNeill returned from the mountains this week.

September 1st having arrived the business houses have discontinued closing at 6 o'clock in the evening. Most of them, however, will close at seven——As a result of the delayed trains yesterday The Star was the only daily paper to reach here.

A lady who came here from Columbus county last week to be treated by Dr. Johnson for that dread disease, pellagra, is said to be improving very much. Dr. Johnson states that during the past few months he has treated successfully eight or ten cases, the patients with one exception having apparently recovered. Dr. Grantham is at present treating eight cases all of which are yielding satisfactorily to treatment.

Mrs. James Boon, about 54 years old, residing four miles from town, died Thursday evening at 5 o'clock, after an illness of five months. Mrs. Boon was one of the most highly esteemed Christian ladies of her section. She was a sister of Mr. W. H. Humphrey, of Lumberton. The funeral was conducted yesterday afternoon at the home, Rev. E. M. Hoyle officiating. The family has the sympathy of the entire community in their bereavement.

Lumber river, which has been as low as it ever gets during the Summer is now showing the effects of the rains of the past few days. The water has risen 5 to 6 feet and is still rising but the big swell is not looked for until tomorrow afternoon or Monday at which time the waters which caused the Seaboard so much trouble near Alma, are expected to reach here.

Miss Sallie Graham, of Rowland, is visiting her brother, Dr. R. F. Graham——Mr. and Mrs. John Woodward, who have been visiting their daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Townsend, left this morning for their home at Morganton.

Mr. W. H. Graham, Jr., who has been assisting Mr. E. G. Sypher, the electrician, during the Summer, will leave Monday for Raleigh where he will enter the A. & M. College.

The remains of Mrs. Fred Smith, who died in Atlanta, Ga., Thursday, arrived here today and were buried in Meadow Brook cemetery. Mrs. Smith was a daughter of Mr. Watts, residing four miles from town. Her mother died about two months ago. Mrs. Smith was here at the time of her mother's death, and returned to her home at Atlanta eight weeks ago Sunday. The remains should have reached here yesterday morning, but were delayed on account of the washout.

Among the attractions at the railroad station this morning was several boxes and barrels of fish sent by express from Woodside and Wilmington to points on the R. & C. These fish arrived here from Wilmington yesterday evening and those who have smelled the fish scrap being unloaded on the river front in Wilmington can form some idea of the complexion of the atmosphere around here this morning at 10 o'clock.

Mrs. T. W. Bullock and little daughter, Ruth, and sister, Miss Ada Arnett who have been spending some time at Lincolnton arrived home today after spending over 24 hours on the road——The first train through from Charlotte since Thursday night, went down this morning at 10 o'clock. Only through passengers and baggage were being handled.

This afternoon about 4 o'clock much excitement was caused in the business part of town by the appearance of two white men under the influence of liquor, driving a mule hitched to a buggy, at breakneck speed. They were soon overtaken and arrested by officers and a special term of the Mayor's court was promptly commenced to try the joy riders. After hearing the evidence Mayor White decided that $2.50 and costs for each was sufficient.

Color in Precious Stones.

The color of gem stones, although of greatest importance commercially, is of little or no value in determining their particular identity. Certain stones show their characteristic shades of color, it is true, but it is only after various tests have been applied that color can be considered at all as evidence of value. All minerals in their pure state are pure white, and the color shown is due to mineral pigment in many cases.

Unwelcome Addition to Drink.

A peculiar experience recently befell a tradesman at Murwillumbah, Australia. He is in the habit of leaving a jug of water in a shady spot all day to cool, drinking it at night. The other evening he was on the veranda talking to his wife, and reaching for the jug took a drink, and before he knew where he was a frog was halfway down his throat, eventually sliding right down.

Supply.

New Minister—"Now just one thing more before I accept this charge. Have you got a 'supply?'" Deacon—"Well, yes, though we never said anything to the last preacher about it. I'll show you where it is, and get you a key, but I tell you you'll have to be just as careful about using it as the rest of us!"—Puck.

Concerts at Lumina Today.

NEWS NOTES OF COLUMBUS

Maxwell-Smith Case Tried—Town Improvements—Death of Mr. Charlie Baldwin—Moonshine Still Captured—Other Items

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Whiteville, N. C., Sept. 2.—The trial of the case against Mr. Aubrey Smith began yesterday morning at 10, and was not concluded until after 1 o'clock. The court house was filled with spectators, as much interest was felt in the trial. A number of witnesses were examined, and the testimony conflicted. Counsel for both sides fought every point. The case was tried before Magistrate Bruce Pierce and Mayor W. Ross Davis. After hearing the testimony, Aubrey Smith was fined $30 and costs. No charge had been made against Maxwell. The costs and fine amounts to $50.35.

Whiteville is receiving more of that Beech Island cement-gravel and is finishing up the four main streets and repairing places in paving already put down. The town is also putting up racks on vacant lots for the convenience of people from the country.

Mr. Jackson Greer returned yesterday from Baltimore, where two operations were performed on his little son, Charles. Mrs. Greer remains with the child. We are glad to report that the little sufferer is doing as well as could be expected, after being kept for three hours under the surgeon's knif. The child was injured in one of its legs last Summer while Mr. and Mrs. Greer were visiting at Wrightsville Beach.

Yesterday afternoon, after disposal of the case against Mr. Aubrey Smith, Mr. J. R. Maxwell swore out another warrant, embodying the same charges, before Magistrate J. R. Maxwell. It seems that he was not satisfied with the fine imposed. He has employed four more lawyers.

Farmers say while the heavy rains somewhat gave late cotton a set back it was the making of late corn and potatoes and Fall crops. It held up last evening, so no harm is done. Cotton is opening very slowly which shows that the crop is still taking on fruit.

Mr. Charlie Baldwin, one of our oldest and most respected citizens, died yesterday afternoon just before dark. He had been a sufferer for a long time, but bore same with fortitude. The deceased was about 69 years of age, and was born and lived all his life in Columbus county. He was a quiet, pure-minded man, whose heart overflowed with love and charity. It can be truly said that he leaves not an enemy behind. The deceased leaves a widow and a number of children—Mrs. W. L. West, of Wilmington; Mr. Vernon Baldwin, of Sumter, S. C.; Auty Baldwin, Rowland; Sam and Erza Baldwin, of Whiteville, and Misses Iola and Blannie Baldwin. Our people all sympathize with the bereaved family.

The officers yesterday brought to town a moonshine still, which they captured in South Whiteville township. It was the crudest apparatus ever seen. The still was made of an oil can and the worm of a piece of crooker iron pipe. But the thing worked, as shown by a stand of molasses beer found near by. No arrests were made. The outfit was captured by Deputy Marshal Benton and Deputy Sheriff Ammons. The still is in the sheriff's office and attracts considerable attention.

The condition of Miss Pauline Toon, one of the best loved young women in Whiteville, is still critical——Dr. J. C. Sikes will leave Tuesday for Chicago, where he will take a special course in dentistry.——Miss Carrie Mayes, stenographer for Mr. Donald McRackan and Mr. L. W. Stanley, has resigned her position and returned to her home in Mayesville, S. C.——Millie-Christine, who are natives of Columbus county, and who spend their vacations at their home near here, were in Whiteville yesterday en route North where they will exhibit this fall They stated to your correspondent that they had entirely recovered from their recent illness and always enjoyed a trip North, though they were glad to get back to Columbus county at all times.

Coffee for the Palms.

While dining with some German friends the old gentleman of the family got up from the table with a cup of lukewarm black coffee and poured it on a beautiful palm. He said that plants need stimulants as well as people. I tried this, and now, once every week, my plants get their cup of lukewarm black coffee. It seems to give them new life.—Good Housekeeping.

"Old Nick" Busy.

A reverend Scotchman was going to hold forth to an open-air meeting. He sat down on a bank in which there was an ant's nest; the insects soon found their way into his "Oh, no, we never mention 'em's," and he said: "Brethren, though I hope I have the word of God in my mouth, I think the deel has got into my breeks."—Exchange.

S.S.S. FOR SUMMER SKIN DISEASES

During the summer most persons are annoyed with pimples, boils, rashes or eruptions, while others suffer more severely with Eczema, Acne, Tetter, Salt Rheum, or some kindred skin disease. All skin affections come from humors and acids in the circulation. The blood, as it circulates through the system, deposits these humors and acids in the sensitive membranous flesh which lies just beneath the outer skin. This acrid matter causes inflammation and a discharge which breaks through the delicate cuticle, and skin diseases are the result. To cure any skin trouble the blood must be freed from all acids and humors, and for this purpose nothing equals S.S.S. This great blood purifier completely removes every particle of the impurity, enriches the blood, and in this way permanently cures skin diseases. S. S. S. cures because it purifies the blood and thus does away with the cause. Book on skin diseases and any medical advice you may desire sent free. S.S.S. is for sale at drug stores.

Do not chase a dollar till you fall down on Integrity in the rush.

Very few men fall out over an office when the pay is meagre and the honor is small.

Politicians will have to quit promising things that they do not know so very much about.

Many a man who has the courage of his convictions hasn't got much of which to be proud.

Every man has another thought coming to him if he thinks he can win in any game without making a move.

An Iowa town has been greatly agitated over an injunction to prevent a restaurant from frying onions because the odor was objected to by the neighbors. That lets Wilmington out.

Any man would accept a nomination for President even if it is certain that he would be defeated. No man would miss such a chance to flatter himself with the idea that he is Presidential timber.

J. Pierpont Morgan and Senator Aldrich had an hour's conference a few days ago. It is more than likely that neither for a moment gave the least thought to the drawing of baseball players for the 1912 season.

"Has Taft committed suicide?" the New York World asks daily in an editorial which indicates belief that he has. We admit there is some evidence of it, because it is the general belief that he kicked the props from under himself.

"The road to wealth" is the one which runs through eastern North Carolina where a farmer raises $300 to $450 worth of products from one acre of land on which from two to four different kinds of crops are grown in one season.

It is not true that the pictorial theatres of Wilmington had anything to do with the surrepticious snatching of of Leonardo da Vinci's master painting, Mona Lisa alias La Jocund. At the same time, they are using disappearing pictures.

In order to prove that the success of any political party cannot guarantee a "full dinner pail," consider what an outrageously insignificant sandwich can be bought for 10 cents after many years of Republican hysteria on the subject of prosperity.

What has become of the old-fashioned editor who used to view with alarm the extermination of the sperm whale and the consequent menace that the world would be without light because of the inability to keep the market supplied with sperm candles?

In the Montreal theatre the Canadians hissed "The Star Spangled Banner" when it was rendered by the band.Nevertheless, American packers will not offer the slightest objection to placing Canadian cattle on the free list for the sake of reciprocity.

THE NESTOR OF THE PRESS.

Dr. T. B. Kingsbury, of Wilmington, is the Nestor of the North Carolina press. He is 84 years of age and yet it has been only a few days ago since he took his farewell of journalism. As for the balance of us, we are newspaper men, but the venerable and distinguished editor is a journalist, both in the ethical and technical sense as well as on account of a newspaper career of 66 years. From a newspaper contributor at the age of 17, he developed into a master writer who has well earned a place among the journalists of this country. He has rounded out an editorial life of great brilliancy and usefulness, and so it is that on his 84th birthday, on the 28th of August, 1911, he elected it as his last time to furnish "copy."

In today's Star we reproduce from the Fayetteville Observer a dictation which he pronounces as his "last contribution to the public." What an interesting and illuminating contribution it is! Yet its interest for us lies both in its autobiographical value and the pathetic sense which it arouses within us under the circumstances, so that our esteemed Fayetteville contemporary quite truly remarks that Dr. Kingsbury's "announcement cannot be received without emotion by patriotic North Carolinians." We are sure we sensibly share in that emotion from personal as well as patriotic reasons, for we agree with the Observer in its high tribute to the distinguished editor for the lifetime service that he has rendered to North Carolina and his party. Dr. Kingsbury's whole work as an editor has been inspired by his devotion to North Carolina. He loved his State with sincere devotion and ever wrote from the viewpoint that took the side of the people and was best for the reputation and renown of North Carolina.

As an editor of lofty purpose, his writings evince his pride in Carolina's traditions, her history and her great men. No one in the State was better qualified to write of the eminent North Carolinians who were "giants in their day," and whose statesmanship is a part of this history of this Republic. Many an informing and interesting biographic sketch he has furnished, and it was from them that we learned to know of the big North Carolinians of the past.

The distinguishing feature of Dr. Kingsbury's editorial writings was that they were always from the heart and that they were characterized by their scholarly finish and vigor of expression. He knew the right word to use and there was a virility of phrase that made one feel like he was having face to face contact with the subject. He cared more for conviction than for analysis, and, therefore, his editorials ever constituted the expression of honest and manly sentiments. He is a man of extensive reading and great learning, and hence he was always ready with his opinions and quick with his pen. He produced editorials with great swiftness, and while he preferred some subjects more than others, he displayed great versatility in his work of editing the Morning Star and the Wilmington Messenger, both of which he edited first and last in a residence of about 35 years in this city.

For about thirteen years we worked on the Messenger with Dr. Kingsbury and we are prepared to say that he was a fecund and prolific writer. He always complained of not being allotted sufficient space, while a less industrious editor would have rejoiced to get off with a minimum of toil. Not so with Dr. Kingsbury. He loved to write and he was so alert and ready as a thinker and writer that he filled his space and yearned for more. He wrote in a piquant and incisive style, and he loved to dwell in the literary domain, evincing great familiarity with the great authors and practically educating a reader concerning their merits and achievements. As a political writer, he wrote from the standard of Jefferson and Monroe, and nothing could swerve him from his principles or his ideals.

"So it seems," the doctor writes in his last contribution, "that my editorial life has been sufficiently protracted to prevent my friends from forgetting that I existed as an editor, or ever endeavored to do some service to the State in that particular." This followed his enumeration of the numerous papers and magazines for which he wrote during his sixty-six years of newspaper service, and as to whether he is remembered he need not have any doubt on that score. He ranks today as one of the State's greatest editors, and his reputation in that respect is more fully recognized as the years roll by.

We doubt whether, in all respects, North Carolina ever had an editor as severally gifted and well equipped as Dr. Kingsbury. Combined with his great talent, his presence was of the Chesterfieldan type, and his geniality and suavity of manner prevailed in and out of the office. His manner towards all men was as graceful as the lines which came from his pen, and that he loved his fellow man and his Maker is evinced by the fact that for many years he devoted a large part of his thought and time to a church work that will live long after the last contribution that he may either write or dictate. Let us hope, however, that Dr. Kingsbury is mistaken in pronouncing his communication to the Fayetteville Observer as his last. We wish for him further abiding here and more time to think it over and write again.

THE SWOOP OF THE HURRICANE

The Star has before uttered a word of sympathy and cheer for Charleston, and while we feel that our sister city in South Carolina is well able to take care of herself, we fear that the coast country of South Carolina has suffered a greater disaster than at first was apparent. This from an editorial in the Columbia state would indicate as much:

"While damage to the extent of a million dollars is a serious misfortune to the people of Charleston, business has been resumed and the city is prepared in every way to attend to the wants of its friends. The sympathy for the people of the city is universal in South Carolina and the best way to show it is the substantial way of trading with Charleston merchants as though there had been no hurricane. What would injure Charleston most would be the getting abroad of an impression that its business facilities have been crippled. The facts are that the wholesale and retail stores are promptly filling orders, the hotels and restaurants are open and the city is the same delightful place to visit now that it has ever been. The injury to the farmers along the coast has been greater. The misfortune of the rice planters and sea island cotton growers amounts to disaster. When a farmer loses 85 per cent. of his year's work and the money that he has invested in the growing crop, a great deal of fortitude is required to endure it and a great deal of courage is required to move a man to try another year. The people of the city can be and should be helped by their customers and friends—because the business of the city goes on—but for the planters nothing can be done. Where there are very poor people in need of assistance, the people of the State are doubtless ready to send it, but the planters who especially deserve sympathy are those who would not accept charity even if they were reduced to the point that they needed it. The damage to them is injury to the prosperity of the whole State, and, apart from the lives lost, it is the most lamented result of the hurricane."

Wilmington can sympathize with Charleston in all the misfortunes that have befallen her, and especially as to the distress which must be felt in the trucking and farming region tributary to the city. Wilmington suffered similarly a few years ago from storm and flood, and while our city was spared such wreck as has occurred on the Charleston harbor front, the conditions in two or three counties around us were such that the people had to be helped. That will be forthcoming for Charleston whenever she says the the word.

However, we are reminded that Charleston, in the days when "the earth trimbled," evinced the fortitude and pluck that made her triumph over disaster, so that in spite of this lesser one we feel assured that our siter city will soon be pursuing the even tenor of her way.

REDUCTIO AD ABSURDUM.

The strangest thing that the Republican idea of reciprocity, is that the industries of this country would go to the dogs if they didn't tax the consumers for the benefit of the producers. Protection compels a pauperized consumer to work for his own living and moreover contribute a large share of his earnings for the benefit of million dollar trusts.

Since that queer idea of prosperity has been carried out for the past fifty years, President Taft might spring a new kind of political economy that would put a tax on the trusts for the benefit of consumers. Of course, prosperity brought to consumers in that way would strike a trust as an utter absurdity and not a one of them would vote a tax on tnemselves to even furnish a consumer with a meal ticket.

Nevertheless, and also notwithstanding, we have met up with consumers who vote with both eyes wide open for a tax on themselves and their families in order to fill the doffers of billion dollar monopolies. At the same time, willing consumers like that are still "at large." How about reversing the indirect tax so the trusts can be taxed for the prosperity of those who work without having any political party to guarantee them a profit on the sweat of their brow?

CURRENT COMMENT.

Charleston can stand a little jab such as was given her Sunday night, and will come out so well armed and substantially buttressed that the sea will never again dare to rebel.—Charleston Post.

But if the State convention does not adopt Judge Clark's platform and makes one that means something else, could the judge consistently accept the nomination if tendered him? This platform business is a dangerous thing to monkey with.—Greensboro News. (Rep.)

The Wilmington Star says there will be a whole lot of fun at Baltimore next year when Woodrow Wilson is nominated for President by the great National Democratic Convention. But this will not compare with the fun the Democrats will have after the election in November when Woodrow Wilson will be declared the next President of the United States—Salisbury Post.

Wilmington Star: "A married man in Chicago committed suicide because he got home too late for supper. It's curious that some men will commit suicide for the same reason other men would laughingly seize as an excuse to get down town to buy a ham sandwich." We happen to know that the real situation that night was that the fellow was full of sandwiches and other things, so full, in fact, he couldn't think of an excuse for being late.—Petersburg Index-Appeal.

"Bloomsbury," writing in the Carolina Democrat, says that Representative Robert N. Page, present member of Congress from this, the Seventh Congressional District, will most probably have opposition next time. There is no little talk, says the article, in the district about two men, to-wit; Mr. Archibald Johnson, editor of Charity and Children, and Mr. R. F. Beasley, editor of the Carolina Democrat. Mr. Lockhart, of Anson, is also named as a probable candidate. The article further intimates that if either should make the race, Mr. Page would have to defend his vote for a 7 per cent. duty on lumber all over the district. Now we have no doubt that both Messrs. Johnson and Beasley are good Democrats and have rendered valuable service to their party in the State, but we believe that before the people of the Seventh District are asked to retire as valuable a representative as Mr. Page, a better reason will be given than that intimated above. That 7 per cent. duty on lumber is entirely too small a matter in itself for a statesman of Congressional timber to make the issue of his campaign. As for Mr. Lockhart, we do not think that the State would care to spare both him and Judge Clark from her borders at one and the same time.—Laurinburg Exchange.

BIG RALLY AT CHADBOURN.

What is Doing at Thriving Columbus County Centre—School.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Chadbourn, N. C., Sept. 2.—Monday will see the school doors of the Chadbourn High School opened and the good work begun. Prof. Harry P Bowling, from Old Virginia, will have charge of the school this year. A splendid corps of teachers has been secured and all are looking forward to a most successful term. The work on the new school building is being pushed forward with all the speed possible and it is thought that it will be ready for occupancy by the first of the year. Until that time the sessions will be held in a group of small dwelling houses on the north side of town. Partitions have been removed, the houses thoroughly renovated and fumigated and everything done that can be done for the health and comfort of the scholars.

The work on the drainage ditches has been somewhat retarded by the recent rains, but is being pushed forward as fast as possible. The splendid system of ditches that will drain this entire section for a radius of four miles is something like half dug. This is going to lower the water level six or eight feet, and, as has been demonstrated by the dry weather of the last two seasons, is bound to make this one of the most productive sections in eastern North Carolina.

In view of the very successful berry season of the early Summer, there will be some increase of the acreage the coming season. This, however, will not be so marked as it might have been had not the weather been so dry that the plants could not "make" or that they could not be set when they were ready. Planters are also having a hard time getting plants to live.

More cotton has been raised in this section this year than ever before, as has also other staple crops, such as sweet potatoes, corn, hay, etc. On an average the cotton is fine, but the hot weather two weeks ago hurt it badly. The fact that there is enough cotton here to keep the hands of this section busy is going to cut short the Robeson county supply, as they have been taking a great many from here every year.

As the Fall draws nigh and the various crops are garnered the minds of the people turn to the coming Rally Day, which will be some time the latter part of October, the time not having been fixed definitely. The great success of the first effort last year has made the people of the county look forward to the coming one with unusual interest. It is being talked all over the county and it is expected that there will be at Chadbourn on that day the largest crowd that has ever assembled in the county. There will be an exhibit of farm products of every kind, showing the county's resources in a most convincing way. There will be exhibits of all kinds of farm machinery, showing the most improved methods in handling the work of the farms in these latter days. There will be some of the best speakers of the State, among whom will be Pres. H. Q. Alexander, of the Farmers' Union, and Dr. Hill, of the A. & M. College. There were last year in the parade over a thousand school children. This year County Superintendent of Education, F. T. Wooten, says that he will have 2,500 in the parade. That alone would be worth taking a day's time to see. A long list of premiums will be offered, and here will be an opportunity for the Wilmington merchants as well as the Columbus county merchants to get in some good advertising.

ANSON COUNTY VETERANS

Glorious Reunion at Wadesboro on Friday—Other News Notes

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Wadesboro, N. C., Sept. 2.—More than 800 people gathered here at the reunion of Anson Camp of Confederate Veterans. Major Wm. A. Smith, commandant, was in charge. The veterans first assembled at the Court House and marched to the graded school auditorium where the exercises were held. Col. Risden Tyler Bennett and Mr. H. S. Boggan were the speakers for the occasion.

Major Smith, in delivering his annual address and his greetings to the veterans said that a close and everlasting tie had come about between them, "For the toils, cares and hardships and the battles fought together had wielded them into one everlasting brotherhood." He then paid tribute to those who have died since the last meeting, speaking of them in a tender and sympathetic manner.

Col. Bennett was then introduced and in his own unique manner entertained the audience for about twenty minutes. He said in his address that he felt like congratulating everybody and his wife and of taking an analysis of the entire situation, "Because he had never seen anything so pretty as a half-grown girl with a fiddle." This remark was brought about by the fact that a young lady had rendered some selections on the violin. In speaking of the Southern soldiers he said that they, during the trials of the Civil War, "staggered humanity with the power of their resistance and force of their aggressions." He said that "The South is the Continent of the next Century" while he had no way of judging the future but by the past, he predicted that the future would be even more glorious than the past.

After Col. Bennett, Mr. H. S. Boggan was then introduced and spoke for some time of the patriotism of the Southern soldiers. He also paid great tribute to the women of the South.

At the close of Mr. Boggan's speech the veterans were ushered to the table where dinner was served under the management of Mesdames J. G. Boylin, Eugene Little, T. J. Fetzer and W. A. Ingram. All went home expressing delight with the exercises and entertainment.

YOUNG MEN'S FIRST VOTE.

Important Decision in Richmond Touching Primary Election.

Richmond, Va., Sept. 2.—Of statewide importance is a decision rendered by Judge Samuel B. Witt, of the Hustings court, Part I., sitting in vacation today with Judge Ernest H. Wells, of Part II., in the case of Thomas H. Saunders, Jr., against W. F. Eanes, registrar of the second precinct, Marshall Ward, this city.

The decision fixes the status of young men who become of age between the date of the primary election September 7th, and the general election to follow. The court ruled that such are assessable for poll taxes and are eligible to vote at the primary when their poll taxes are paid. The cases grew out of a refusal of the commissioner of revenue, Hawkins, to assess for poll taxes Mr. Launder and other applicants, who desired to qualify in time to vote next Thursday.

WILL OBSERVE LABOR DAY

No Formal Celebration, But There Will Be Athletic Events at Lumina and Baseball at League Park

While there will be no formal celebration of the day in Wilmington and vicinity, Labor Day, tomorrow, will be pretty generally observed by the people of this city and section It is expected that business will be pretty much at a standstill throughout the day so that the employes in the manufacturing plants, business houses, mercantile establishments, etc., may have a few hours from their labors to be used in the way which best suits them.

There will be a plenty to amuse and entertain the crowds who will seek recreation and diversion from their daily pursuits. The baseball games at League Park between Greensboro and Greenville of the Carolina Association will probably attract several hundred enthusiastic fans who have not been given the opportunity this season to see a game between two professional teams. Hundreds of others are expected to spend the day on Wrightsville Beach. The athletic meet arranged for the day in front of Lumina should draw a large crowd for such events are becoming very popular with the people of this city and section.

The vents will take place in front of Lumina and will begin at 11 o'clock in the morning. The Tidewater Power Co., promises ample car service to handle the crowds. The officials of the meet are: Referee, Chas. Dushan, marshal, J. E. Huntington; judgees W. W. Koch and H. G. Foard; clerk of course, J. U. King; scorer, F. C. Hack; starter, W. R. Dosher.

There are 16 different events and there are a large number of athletes entered in each. Prizes will be awarded the three highest in each contest. The following are the events: 100-yard dash (under 110 pounds), 100-yard dash (110 pounds and over), running broad jump (under 110 pounds), running broad jump (110 pounds and over), sack race (under 110 pounds), 50 yards, sack race (110 pounds and over), 75 yards; rope climb (open to all); 18-feet hand over hand; human race (open to all), 50 yards; weight lift (open to all), 32 pounds; potato race (under 110 pounds), eight potatoes, two yards apart; potato race (110 pounds and over), eight potatoes, two yards apart; flag race (open to girls); 220-yard dash (open to all); swimming race (under 110 pounds), 200 yards out and back; swimming race (110 pounds and over), 1-8 mile out and back.

LAST CONCERT OF SEASON

Will Be Given at Lumina This Afternoon and Evening

The closing concerts of the season 1911 at gay Lumina will be given this afternoon and evening and it is expected that one of the largest crowds of the season will be found at the pleasure palace. Mr. John F. Kneisel, the conductor, has selected for the concerts one of the best programmes of the year, and those who fail to avail themselves of the opportunity to attend will have no similar chance to enjoy good music before next Summer.

Both the afternoon and night programmes contain many popular pieces that have been put there by request, and the special feature of the programme is a new march composed by Mr. Kneisel himself. This march he has named "Auf Wieder Sehn" and its production on this occasion is very appropriate. Mr. Kneisel has composed a number of pieces which have been played at Lumina from time to time, but this last piece is said to be his greatest.

The following are the programmes arranged for the concerts:

AFTERMATH OF CONVENTION

(By Geo. F. King.)

There are still a large number of delegates and visitors to the Lott Carey Baptist Foreign Mission convention, which closed Friday night after a three days' very successful and interesting session, in the city. The strong resolutions thanking the citizens of both races in Wilmington for their cordial welcome and the press for its consideration, are accentuated upon the streets by the delegates and visitors who say their stay in the chief seaport of North Carolina was profitable and that they had never been better received than here.

The convention has given impetus to Christian movements among negroes in the city, especially, and the concensus of opinion among the prominent colored ministers is that there will be greater activity on the part of the colored laity to reach the undesirable element of their race and cause them to work for the good of their race and community.

A movement that is now the synosure of the eyes of the colored ministers of the country is the National Religious Training School, at Durham, officered by some of the leading white and colored men of the country, with Gen. Julian S. Carr, of Durham, as treasurer. The following call for a ministers' conference for negroes is being discussed by the many ministers of the convention just adjourned:

"To the ministers of the United States: At the request of many who are interested in the development of the race along all lines, I have been asked to call a conference of the colored ministers of the United States as far as possible, together at the National Religious Training School, in the city of Durham, N. C., July 6, 1912.

"The conference is for the purpose of discussing the moral, civil and spiritual condition of the negro, to study sociological problems and to devise some means of working along practical lines for the uplift of the race, especially through religious channels. We realize that the colored minister is the real leader of his people and that there should be co-operation between him and all others who are striving for the racial uplift. We believe that the colored minister holds the real key to the situation and for this reason we desire to have a heart to heart conference of all the ministers, irrespective of denominations.

"Such practical questions as these will be discussed: What is the moral condition of the people in your community? What is the sanitary condition? What effort, if any, has been made to improve the sanitary conditions? Is crime on the increase? If not, what was the cause of its reduction? To what extent do you co-operate with the civic improvement leagues? Has settlement work to any extent been conducted in your community, and if so, with what results? What is the real religious condition of the people? Revivals, how conducted? To what extent has the work of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. been effective in your community? Do you approve of them? What has been the effect of temperance organizations and have you co-operated with them? What has been the attitude of day school teachers toward the church? Are they church attendants? Do they engage in the work of the Sunday School? What is the general fitness of the city and country school teacher? Many other kindred subjects will be discussed.

"The National Religious Training School invites all ministers to be their guests for one week so that you will be at no expense while in the city of Durham. The railroad will be asked to co-operate in this movement to the extent of making very liberal rates. Durham is regarded as one of the most progressive cities in the country and it will be a pleasure and a benefit for you to come and see what your own race is actually doing in Durham."

The call is signed by President Jas. E. Shepard, the founder of the school. The officials ask that the ministers attending same will inform them by January 1st, 1912, so that arrangements will be made for them. Rt. Rev. Robt. Strange, D. D., of this city, is a member of the advisory board of this institution calling this conference of negro ministers, which will undoubtedly mean much in helping to solve the race problem in this country.

The pulpits of the colored churches in the city today will be occupied by the visiting ministers.

Sand Trap May be Cause.

City Engineer F. F. Pillett, one of a committee of three appointed about ten days ago for the purpose, yesterday morning made an inspection of Jacob's Run, the alleged obstruction of which resulted in the arrest Friday of Mayor Smith and Dr. Chas. T. Nesbitt, city superintendent of health, on a charge of allowing and maintaining a nuisance. Mr. Pillett said that he was of the opinion that a sand-trap just north of Jacob's Run, on Third street, is the cause of the trouble and not the Run itself. The pipe leading from the sand trap to the sewer may also be stopped up, he said, and that the deposit of filth when the place overflowed may have come from some sewer connection above the sand trap. It is understood that steps will be taken right away to abate the nuisance.

FALL TERM BEGINS MONDAY

Rural Schools of the County Will Open—Large Enrollment is Expected—Inspected by Dr. MacMillan.

The rural public schools of the county will begin the Fall term tomorrow morning and from the information received at the office of Prof. Washington Catlett, superintendent of public instruction, the enrollment this year will be larger than for any previous year with splendid prospects for a considerable improvement in the average attendance. The teachers have all practically arrived at their respective schools and will be ready to open tomorrow at the usual hour.

Dr. W. D. MacMillan, county superintendent of public instruction, has practically completed a visit to all the schools in the county as required by law and inspected the premises. A few schools have not been reached, but they will be visited one day this week. Dr. MacMillan was accompanied on his trip through the county by Prof. Catlett. They were out practically every day last week and made a careful and thorough examination of the premises of every school visited. Dr. MacMillan gave to Prof. Catlett a certificate of the sanitation of all the schools visited except two, one being condemned on account of unsanitary premises and the other for lack of water. The school found to have unsanitary premises will probably open in a day or two for it ought not to take long to clean up the premises.

Dr. MacMillan remarked upon the perfect sanitary condition of the buildings and grounds of schools at Greenville, Middle Sound and Acorn Branch.

There is greater interest in educational matters in the county now than was ever known before and Prof. Catlett is satisfied of a most successful school year. The conference between members of the County Board of Education and district committeemen a few weeks ago stimulated interest to an unexpected degree and it is said that the committeemen are working to secure an enrollment of all the children of school age in their respective districts, as agreed at the meeting.

GOES WITH A. W. PATE CO.

Joseph J. Loughlin, Esq., Resigns Position in Postoffice

An announcement of interest in business circles is that Joseph J. Loughlin, Esq., has resigned his position of clerk in the postoffice to take a connection, effective tomorrow, with the firm of A. W. Pate Company, real estate brokers of this city. Besides his position of salesman and office man with this firm, Mr. Loughlin will become a member of the Southern Realty & Development Company, the corporation that is developing Lakeside Park, having purchased the interest of Dr. J. W. Powell. Under the re-organization the corporation will be composed of A. W. Pate, president and general manager; D. N. Chadwick, Jr., vice president, and J. J. Loughlin, Esq., secretary and treasurer. Its headquarters will continue to be in the offices of A. W. Pate Company.

Both are already well-known in the real estate business. A. W. Pate Company has successfully developed a suburb at Greenville Station, now known as Sea Gate; and the head of the firm, Mr. A. W. Pate, is known as one of the most successful real estate brokers in the city. The project of the Southern Realty & Development Company in developing Lakeside Park, a suburb near Greenville Lake, on the new Federal Point road, though recent, is meeting with marked success.

Mr. Loughlin himself is not a stranger, and he will no doubt prove to be a valuable addition to the enterprises. For the past several years he has held a responsible position, partially executive, in the clerical force of the local potoffice. He brings to his aid in his new calling something of a legal education, having studied law in the offices of Kellum & Loughlin, and obtained his license from the Supreme Court. He will engage in such practice as shall be incident to his new business.

NEWS OF THE SHIPPING.

Derelict of Schooner Davidson Towed in—The Valentine's Condition.

The Baltimore tug Tormentor, Capt. Downey, which happened to be in at Southport for harbor when the severe storm of last week struck this coast, yesterday towed in from over the Cape Fear bar the derelict schooner James Davidson, which was reported in yesterday morning's Associated Press dispatches as having sunk off Charleston from which port she was bound with cargo of lumber for New York. The captain and crew of the schooner, it will be recalled, were taken off by the American tramp steamer Northwestern and landed at Havana, Cuba. The derelict, completely submerged, was picked up off the whistling buoy, Cape Fear bar, and was towed to the government dock at Southport, where the second officer of the Tormentor is in charge. She lost all masts and rigging and part of her deck load of lumber.

Further unsuccessful attempts have been made to get the schooner Charles H. Valentine off the shoals of Middle Ground, below Southport, but hope of saving the vessel has now about been abandoned and the insurance people are casting about for lighters in an effort to save part of her cargo of lumber.

The United States Revenue Cutter Seminole proceeded to sea yesterday morning in search of derelicts, especially the schooners John Rose and Sarah D. Fell. The tugs Tormentor and Blanche also went outside yesterday in search of derelicts or to be of any assistance possible to shipping.

GETTING READY FOR FALL

Boys' Brigade Work Will be Resumed Latter Part of Month—Building Being Repainted—Lyceum Course.

Preparatory to the opening of the Fall and Winter work the latter part of this month, the handsome armory of the Boys' Brigade, corner Second and Church streets, is being repainted inside and out, the stage in the hall is being enlarged to meet the requirements of the splendid Lyceum Course which will be given, the equipment in the gymnasium is being increased and other changes and improvements of less importance are being made.

Mr. Chas. Dushan, general secretary of the institution, is a very busy man, looking after all the arrangements for the Fall and Winter work and the improvements that are being made in the building and equipment. The members of the organization are eagerly awaiting the time for the opening of the institution for the Fall and Winter work. Various committees have been appointed to aid General Secretary Dushan in the arrangements for the different departments. The next business meeting will be held the second Monday instead of the first Monday, tomorrow, which is a holiday, and drills will be resumed on the third Monday.

The work in the gymnasium, educational and social departments will begin about October 1st. The first attraction of the Lyceum Course will also be given some time in October, the date to be selected and announced later. Season tickets for the course have been printed and will be ready for delivery to the subscribers this week. Only a few tickets remain unsold and it is expected that they will be disposed of in short order. The course last year was a great success, all the attractions being first-class and entertaining, but it is said that this year's course will surpass it in many respects. Mr. Dushan contracted for the attractions at the close of the last season and was therefore in position to get some choice numbers.

The gymnasium equipment will be increased and strengthened wherever necessary, including the installation of an apparatus for making physical examinations. All other equipment found to be needed will be purchased, making the gymnasium second to none in the State.

THE RECORDER'S COURT

Heaviest Fine of Some Time Imposed Upon Mr. Riggs

The heaviest fine on record in the Recorder's court for some time was imposed at yesterday's session upon Mr. C. C. Riggs, a white man, who was found guilty of assaulting Mr. J R. Davis with a deadly weapon in the form of a hammer. Mr. Riggs was fined $100 and costs, but took an appeal to the Superior Court.

Both men are carpenters and it is said that the trouble grew out of some disagreement over their work. Mr. Riggs walked up to Mr. Davis and struck him over the head with a hammer, necessitating a visit to the James Walker Memorial Hospital by the latter to have his wound treated.

G. McFarland and John Williams were charged with operating carts without license numbers. Judgment was suspended in McFarland's case and Williams was taxed $4 and the costs.

Judgment was suspended in a case charging Robert Moore with violating the driving ordinance. Tony Black, charged with asasult and battery, was dismissed.

Marine Edge, alias Bellamy, was charged with larceny. Probale cause bcould not be found and the case was dismissed. A nol pros with leave was taken in a case charging R. G. Stokely with violating the dog ordinance.

NEW AMUSEMENT CENTRE

Two Vaudeville Theatres—Crystal Palace Opens Tomorrow

The opening of the Palace on Labor Day inaugurates an attractive season of vaudeville and gives to Wilmington more variety entertainment than any previous season. Manager Peiffer announces six acts for the coming week which will be divided between the ever-popular Airdome and the Crystal Palace, so as to arrange good performces for both resorts. Mr. Peiffer also states that since the Airdome has always been largely patronized and such a success, he will continue vaudeville and pictures as long as the weather will permit, possibly to the middle of October; several elaborate features have been booked for the month of September. New photo-plays will be presented daily at both theatres, the Airdome showing from 7:30 to 11:30 and the Palace at 3:30, 4:30 and 9:15 with an additional performance Saturdays to accommodate the increased attendance. New projecting paraphernalia has been installed at the Palace and the good vaudeville programme promises a gala opening week.

Mrs. Davis Thrown from Buggy

Mrs. J. H. Davis, of this city, was thrown from a buggy and rather severely hurt near Hampstead Friday afternoon during a wind and rain storm. Mrs. Davis was visiting relatives near Hampstead and at the time of the accident she was out driving. A falling tree frightened the horse and she was thrown from the buggy and badly bruised and shaken up. Mrs. Davis returned to the city yesterday afternoon in company with her husband, who went to Hampstead yesterday morning for the purpose of accompanying her home. Many friends will hope that the injuries are not of a serious nature and that she will soon be entirely recovered.

"POLITE'S PEPPER SAUSE."

Col. Wade Harris Comments Upon a Head Waiter's Enterprise.

The Charlotte Chronicle of Friday contained the following editorial reference to William Polite's pepper sauce, under the head of "A Head Waiter's Enterprise":

"The head waiter at The Orton Hotel in Wilmington is named Polite—William Polite—and his bearing and manners are what his name indicates. During the Summer months he is in charge of the Seashore Hotel and his acpaintanceship is therefore a very broad one. The friends of this darkey will be interested to learn that he has patented and put on the market a brand known as 'Polite's Pepper Sauce.' The Wilmington Dispatch says Polite has just received from Hon. James Wilson, Secretary of the United States Agricultural Department, his serial number under the pure food and drug act of June 30, 1906. The guarantee furnished by the manufacturer was found quite satisfactory to the department as to quality and purity and the number granted is 39,300. Every bottle of the sauce manufactured hereafter will bear the guaranty under this serial number. The Dispatch adds: 'The inventor of this sauce, which has been on sale at all grocery stores, is preparing to manufacture the product on a large scale and to that end contemplates the organization of a stock company to place the required machinery, etc. The sauce was well received on the local and other markets and with larger facilities for its manufacture, it should at once jump into popular favor.' The industry of this colored man is to be commended, and we hope riches will be the reward of his pure food contribution to the consuming public."

AMERICAN AEROPLANE CO.

Statement of the Financial Condition of the Corporation.

Having fulfilled their obligations to promote the sale of shares of stock and facilitate the construction of the first aeroplane, Messrs. David Palmgren, Frank P. Meier and C. H. Dock have transferred to the American Aeroplane Company the surplus money on hand. Mr. F. A. Bissinger, president of the American Aeroplane Co., has received the following letter from the three gentlemen mentioned:

"Wilmington, Sept. 1, 1911.

"American Aeroplane Co., Wilmington, N. C.

"Gentlemen:—We have the pleasure to report to you that the American Aeroplane Company's construction fund, which has been established by the undersigned, D. Palmgren and Frank P. Meier, in co-operation with the undersigned C. H. Dock as a private enterprise to promote the sale of the shares transferred to the said C. H. Dock and to facilitate the construction of the company's first aeroplane according to the agreement of September 16th, 1910, between your company and C. H. Dock, has successfully fulfilled the obligations according to the said agreement far above the stipulated sum of $5,000. And although our financial standing shows a considerable surplus, we have decided not to take personal advantage thereof but to transfer as a free gift to the American Aeroplane Co., the excess outlay above $5,000 and all cash on hand and outstanding bills and out reserve fund of shares, amounting at this date to a total of $5,289.84, and also the aeroplane under construction with all material, tools and sundries, the building on Castle Haynes road, now used by us as machine shops and hangar, and all implements bought by us for use in the said construction work together with a full account of the expenditures of our management.

"The transfer of the above mentioned resources of our fund will become effective on September 18th, 1911, and until that time the current expenses will be paid out of and substracted from the said fund."

During the few months of the existence of the construction fund the amount collected is $10,289.84 with surplus on hand of $5,289.84, which amount, as the letter stated, has been presented to the company as a graceful gift. The market value of the stock of the company is now given at $10 a share.

SEMINOLE OUT AGAIN.

Abandoned Schooner Towed Into Southport by Tug Tormentor.

After remaining in port only a few hours, the United States revenue cutter Seminole was ordered out again yesterday and left in the morning for a cruise up the coast in search of several derelicts which are considered dangerous to navigation. On board the cutter was Capt. Watts, of the Cape Fear Life Saving Station, and on reaching the station the cutter will take aboard the life saving crew and take the life boat in tow, to be prepared for rescue work in case vessels are found in distress.

News reached the city yesterday that the tug Tormentor had towed into Southport early yesterday morning the schooner James Davidson, bound from Charleston to New York with a cargo of lumber, which was abandoned at sea shortly after the big storm of the earlier part of the week. When found by the Tormentor the schooner was waterlogged and every mast but one had been swept away.

Mr. E. H. Weaver, of New Haven, Conn., who is either interested in the Davidson, or represents the owners, was notified that the schooner had been towed into Southport by Messrs. C. D. Maffitt & Co., and it is expected that advisory messages will be received from him as to what further steps shall be taken with the boat. The tug Tormentor will come in for a good salvage claim, as it is understood the schooner was abandoned when found.

The Davidson is owned by the Benedict Mason Marine Company, and is of 429 tons burden. The boat was built in 1891 and is 146 feet long, 36 feet beam, 12 feet and three inches depth of hold.

NEGRO SERIOUSLY WOUNDED.

Beat on Head With Scales Weight by Mr. J. A. Riggs.

A negro by the name of George Maides, is in the James Walker Memorial Hospital for attention as the result of offensive language used by him in the store of Mr. J. A. Riggs in East Wilmington early last night and Mr. Riggs is under bond of $100 with Mr. J. O. Brown as surety to appear before the Recorder and answer to a charge of assault with deadly weapon, Mr. Riggs having used a scales weight quite liberally on the negro's cranium. It was stated at the hospital last night that the negro had several ugly wounds on the head, but the physicians cannot tell yet how serious are his wounds, though it is believed that he will recover.

It appears that the negro had bought some tobacco in the store of Mr. Riggs from Mrs. Riggs and then pretended that he had not been given the tobacco. Mrs. Riggs told him that he had received the purchase, whereupon the negro disputed her word and used a curse word. Mr. Riggs entered the store about this time and demanded an apology from the negro. Instead of making an apology as he was directed the negro made a lunge at Mr. Riggs, who was standing near the scales. He seized a weight and must have struck the negro several times on the head.

Maides went to the hospital for treatment. The attending surgeon secured some data relative to the case and telephoned to police headquarters. A warrant was then issued for Mr. Riggs and served by Sergeant C. S. Burnett.

SHOOTING PUZZLES OFFICERS

Wounded Man Says It Was Accident—An Arrest Made

Another mysterious shooting affair was brought to the attention of the police yesterday when Dr. Ralph B. Seem, surgeon in charge of the James Walker Memorial Hospital, called Chief John J. Fowler and notified him that a negro by the name of John Hammond had been brought to the institution suffering from the effects of a pistol wound over the eye, which he claimed to have received while asleep, from a revolver which he had placed under his pillow and which was accidentally discharged. After making an investigation the police arrested W. E. Corker, who admits shooting Hammonds, but declares that the gun was accidentally discharged while he (Corker) was cleaning it.

The affair occurred during the earlier part of the morning and when Chief Fowler learned the facts he sent Mounted Officer J. H. Davis to Highwood Park, where both negroes worked, to investigate. Hammonds told the hospital authorities that he placed the revolver under his pillow before going to sleep and that it was discharged through the pillow and wounded him over the eye. However, when Officer Davis walked up to Corker the negro told him that he had accidentally shot Hammonds while cleaning the pistol. Corker stated that he and Hammonds were in the same bed, and that while he was holding the gun in his hand it was discharged.

According to Hammond's story he must have been lying with face buried in the pillow for the bullet to have entered as it did and this does not seem likely to Chief Fowler. His theory is that Corker took the gun from under the pillow while Hammonds was asleep and fired the shot—either accidentally or intentionally—and that Hammonds was dazed by the shock and thought the gun exploded by accident. The question that is puzzling the chief is why Corker wanted to clean Hammond's revolver.

Pending further investigation of the affair Corker was given accommodations at headquarters, with a charge of assault with a deadly weapon lodged against him.

It was stated at the hospital last night that it is impossible at the present time to ascertain just how serious Hammonds' injury is. However, it is believed that the wound must be of a serious nature, though not necessarily fatal.

TRAIN 24 HOURS LATE

Seaboard Passenger Arrived at 12:20 Yesterday — Washout.

Seaboard passenger train No. 40, which left Charlotte for Wilmington Friday morning, and was held up at and beyond Maxton by washouts, arrived in the city at 12:20 yesterday, just 24 hours late. The train first encountered a washout between Hamlet and Maxton, and was held up for some time at Hamlet. When the trouble was repaired here the train proceeded to Maxton, where it was forced to remain over night on account of a washout inside the city limits of the town. About 500 feet of track were torn up.

Beyond the delay the passengers on the train suffered no discomforts. The washouts were occasioned by an unusually heavy rainfall between Maxton and Hamlet.

Had Used Oil and Water

In testifying before the Council Friday afternoon as to the bad odor emanating from the surface closets that were recently installed, Mr. J. P. Montgomery, who conducts a store at Third and Wright streets, said that he had not used any water and oil in the can at the closet on the premises occupied by him. The property belongs to Capt. Thos. Lossen, who stated to the Council that he had put both water and oil in the can as well as in cans for four other closets owned by him. He said that he put a gallon and a half of oil and a quantity of water in the five cans. Capt. Lossen's statement as to this effect was not given in the report of the meeting in The Star and is mentioned here at the request of some of those interested in having the ordinance repealed

Pier Open for Fishing

Manager Edgar L. Hinton, of the Seashore Hotel, Wrightsville Beach, made the announcement yesterday that the steel pier extending into the ocean from the hotel is now open for fishing and Mr. Steve Brock is in charge, to look after bait and tackle. He will have all necessary equipment on hand for those who desire to pursue the piscatorial art. The announcement that the pier is now open for fishing will be hailed with delight by many of the local disciples of Izaak Walton, who are fond of the sport but do not care to brave the terrors of seasickness in order to enjoy it. The pier is known as one of the finest fishing grounds at the beach and the season for the best sport at this point is now at hand.

..Theatrical..

Yesterday was another joyous day for those who were fortunate enough to be at the Bijou. The attractive and ever-popular moving picture theatre was, to use a trite expression, "there with the goods," and of the finest quality, too. The amusement lovers furnished the quantity and immensely enjoyed one of the greatest shows ever presented in Wilmington. Tomorrow the Bijou will offer a regular holiday bill, fitting to the Labor Day event. It will be gala in every way and will contribute largely to the pleasure of those who have opportunity of enjoying the holiday. Everything will be of festive air and gala spirit at the Bijou, and, if the past repeats itself, tomorrow will be one of the biggest days in the history of the Bijou for attendance.

At the Grand.

Three splendid films of high-class motion pictures will be shown at the Grand tomorrow. Two of these will be especially pleasing, "The Surgeon's Temptation," and "Three Brothers," a Vitagraph subject. The latter embraces a beautiful little love story in which the professional man is put to the test but which all ends happily and to the satisfaction of the audience. The song by Mr. Danford will be "The Rosary." Those who have not heard this favorite singer, should embrace this opportunity. Doors open at 2 and close at 11 o'clock.

DEATH TO BAD HEALTH

St. Louis Man Ends Own Life in New York City

New York, Sept. 2.—While waiting here to meet his fiancee upon her return from Europe, Daniel E. Garrison, Jr., a member of one of the most prominent and wealthy families in St. Louis, committed suicide today because he believed that he was too ill to marry.

When his body was found today shot through the head at the Waldorf Astoria, there were two letters beside him. In one the suicide told his father that he would rather die than to continue to suffer and that it would be unjust to his fiancee to marry her in his present state of health. The other letter was written by the girl he expected to marry, and urged him to "cheer up" and think of "the better days to come."

Mr. Garrison's father and his son by his first marriage, who came here with him yesterday, declined to tell his fiancee's name, saying that this course was best for all concerned. She is expected to arrive from Europe either today or tomorrow. Her letter was dated August 8th, and written while aboard. It was signed 'Mary,"

St. Louis, Sept. 2.—D. E. Garrison, Jr, 42 years old, vice president of the Corrugated Bar Company, who was found dead in a New York hotel today, had an appointment to meet his father, D. F. Garrison, Sr., at the Waldorf Astoria this morning. D. E. Garrison, Third, was traveling with his father

The father, son and grandson, had been on vacations and were not expected to return here for some time. Mr. Garrison, Jr., had been in Canada and Mr. Garrison, Sr., in upper New York. Both men were widowers. The father is president of the Corrugated Bar Company, which he established

No reason was known at the offices of the Corrugated Bar Company here as to why the vice president of the company should kill himself. He was a hay fever sufferer. The meeting scheduled for today in New York between the father and son was of a business nature. The family is considered wealthy.

Mr. Garrison, Jr., was to have been married in New York in October to Miss Mary Williams, of New York, who at present is at Ryebach, N. H. He had given up his home here and intended to live in Buffalo, where he was to take charge of a branch of his firm

SOCIALISTS AND CHURCHMEN

FATE OF PURITAN

Monitor Sunk in Hampton Roads Put to Other Uses

Washington, Sept. 2.—The monitor Puritan which was sunk in Hampton Roads several months ago by ordnance experiments with explosive gelatin, probably will never again see duty at sea. It is proposed to prepare it at a cost of $100,000 for use as a coast defense ship in some Atlantic port. In that event she will be practically a permanent fort in the harbor.

The ordnance tests conducted by direction of Congress, ripped open the belt and turret armor of the Puritan in several places. She was recently raised out of the mud of Hampton Roads and is now at the Norfolk navy yard. The Navy Department had feared it would be necessary to condemn and sell her, but a board of survey which has just completed an examination of the ship has reported that she is worth repairing for coast defense purposes at an expenditure of $100,000. The 12-inch guns of the Puritan, the board added, are as good as new.

TO HOLD THEIR COTTON

Farmers of South to Have Their Vote Through the Union

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 2. — Farmers throughout the South will have a direct vote as to the price to be received for the great bulk of the cotton crop this year.

At the same time as the National Convention of the Farmers' Union opens at Shawnee, Okla., next Tuesday, every lodge of the organization throughout the country will hold meetings and wire instructions to their delegates at Shawnee. These messages will deal principally with the minimum price at which the crop should be sold. The National Convention through a committee will consider these measures and fix a union price as near the general average as possible.

Ways and means for harvesting, marketing and if necessary holding the cotton crop, will be one of the most important matters to come before the Shawnee convention.

Columbus, O., Sept. 2.—High winds and incrasing darkness tonight compelled Aviator Elton, carrying a passenger, Welsh, another aviator, to abandon his original intention of flying from Dayton to Youngston in one continuous flight. The airmen landed just outside of Columbus driving park. Elton declared his intention of resuming his flight at 5 o'clock to Youngstown, 150 miles away.

IMPROVING CITY MILK.

Results of Activities of U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—Restricting the sale of milk to bottles in the city of Chicago, has been the means of improving the quality and lowering the infant mortality," declares Bulletin 138, just issued by the Bureau of Animal Industry of the United State Department of Agriculture, entitled: "The Milk Supply of Chicago and Washington." During the year 1908, samples of milk tested in Chicago showed but 4.8 per cent, to be below the grade prescribed by law, while the year preceding revealed 7.4 per cent. to be below grade.

The new city ordinance which went in to effect in Chicago the first of this year, requires all cows to be tested or the milk pasteurized, and the result of this measure is expected to be most beneficial to the consumer. In co-operation with the weeding out of unsanitary milk rooms in the city—a campaign inaugurated by the authorities—marked improvements are looked for in the quality of milk sold to the consumers.

"Milk bottled in the country," is a slogan which has been extensively employed by dealers. It has increased the sale of milk delivered in this manner and earned for Chicago the distinction of having the supply bottled in the country instead of in the city, as is the case generally.

The inspection of retail rooms in Washington, D. C., requires more time and labor than in other cities of like size because the number of small dealers is large. Owing to the limited volume of business handled, many of these milk rooms are intermingled with domestic and business life, which, compared with other cities, might be considered a prominent fault. General conditions, however, show a steady improvement, and the efforts of the health department are meeting with success.

TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP.

San Francisco Player Wins Right to Challenge Larned.

Newport, R. I., Sept. 2.—Maurice McLoughlin, of San Francisco, by defeating Beals C. Wright, of Boston, in the finals of the all-comers tennis tournament here today, won the right to challenge William A. Larned, of Summit, N. J., for the National championship. Except in the second set and for a few games in the third set McLoughlin was also master of the situation.

RECIPROCITY CAMPAIGN

Two Distinguished Brothers on Opposite Sides

Winnepeg, Man., Sept. 2.—Premier Arthur Sifton, of Alberta, is keeping up a vigorous campaign for reciprocity in the constituencies of Southern Alberta while his distinguished brother, Hon. Clifford Sifton, former minister of interior, is campaigning against the pact with just as great energy in the eastern provinces.

Christiana, Norway, Sept. 2.—Several noted American educators among them Dr. Leonard Steinder, of the Smithonian Institution and Prof. P. W. Well, of the University of Wisconsin, took part in the opening exercises today of the centennial celebration of the Royal Frederick University.

London, Sept. 2.—James R. Keene, the financier, is now in a nursing home, having suffered a relapse, but all information regarding his condition is absolutely refused by the physicians in attendance.

The world abounds in sorrow and suffering. It is full of sad hearts and hungry lives; full of the pinches of poverty, the weariness of toil, of restlessness, and loneliness, and pain. Is it so in any degree because we are not paying the debt of love and sympathy we owe not only to our relations and friends, but also in some measure to our poorer neighbors, and all our fellow creatures?

Big Combination.

A story is told of an American who, visiting in Dublin, was conducted to the cathedral which had been restored by the Guinness family of brewers, then to the schools which they had built, and lastly to the great brewery. "This is really wonderful," said the Yankee. "You seem to run education, salvation and damnation all in one show."

DAY'S DOINGS IN RALEIGH

State May Not Have to Borrow—Conductor Murphy's Case—Heirs in Litigation—W. L. Duke's Discharged.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 2.—There is a strong probability now that the State may not have to borrow the $250,000 that the Council of State authorized under a special act of the Legislature some days ago. The need for it to meet current expenses was on account of expected delay in certification of the tax assessments by the Corporation Commission against the railroads and other corporations, especially the railroads, and the Commission now advises the Governor that the certifications can be made at once so that the State treasurer can proceed with the collection of the railroad taxes. This will afford ample funds for all the immediate needs of the State. The delay in the certification of the assessments was expected by the Legislature in view of the quadrennial re-assessment work devolving on the commission this year. It was for this reason that the special act was passed authorizing a loan if the Council of State deemed it necessary.

Governor Kitchin has gone to Edgemont, Caldwell county, where he delivered an address today for a big Masonic picnic. The Governor's friends say that he is gaining much strength in his Senatorial race by these non-political addresses that he is delivering in many parts of the State on the pressing invitation of people of the respective localities.

There was an amendment filed today for the Asheville Ice & Coal Co., of Asheville. It provides for a decrease in the capital from $100,000 to ton for him to open a postal savings of the corporation.

Richard Tinsley, ex-convict from Vance county, tired of having the dread of re-arrest hanging over him, has returned voluntarily to the North Carolina penitentiary here to complete his one year sentence for larceny and receiving in Vance county. He escaped in 1903, after serving three months, and has since served a term in the Virginia prison for implication in a highway robbery at Danville, obtaining a pardon through good behavior in prison. This was two years ago. Since then he has been at Atlantic City, where he saved a snug bank account of $700. Now he wants relief from the North Carolina sentence. He hopes for a pardon a little later. The negro is said to have been a good prisoner prior to his escape.

Seaboard Air Line Extra Freight Conductor W. J. Murphy, of this city, is fighting strenuously the requisition from the Governor of Georgia that has been honored by Governor Kitchin, for his extradition to Georgia to answer the charge of working a "badger game" on F. M. Bass, a turpentine operator at Hotel Nicholas, Albany, Ga., August 13th in collusion with a number of other persons already under arrest. Conductor Murphy insists that his conductor's record back will show that he was running regularly into Richmond for some days prior to the alleged "badger game" and that on August 12th and for several days thereafter he was in Raleigh, he having numerous witnesses to prove this. A writ of habeas corpus proceeding has been instituted by his counsel, Col. J. C. L. Harris, and Judge W. A. Hoke, of the Supreme Court, is to hear the case at once. A suit case and contents with markings that indicate that they are the property of Conductor Murphy is one of the strongest clues that the prosecution has. The badger game was worked by enticing Bass into a game of cards and then leaving him with a woman in such manner that Murphy returned with the insistence that she was his wife, exacting $90 from Bass. The man was passing as Graham White at Albany.

There is a well defined report, although the suit has not been actually brought, that certain heirs of the late Mrs. Florence P. Tucker will bring a suit to break the will of Mrs. Tucker that left the estate in trust for a period of years with the stipulation that the interest of any child in the estate would terminate with his or her death unless they left an heir. Mrs. Ashby Baker, Mrs. E. H. Fellowes and Mrs. W. H. Williamson are, it is said, to be the litigant heirs, their contention being that under the will of the late R. S. Tucker, from whom Mrs. Tucker inherited, the latter had no power to exact such a condition. Mrs. Barker and Mrs. Williamson have children. It is understood that Aycock & Winston and Guthrie & Guthrie, the latter of Charlotte, have been retained by the litigant heirs to test the will.

Deputy Sheriff W. H. Cox, of New Hanover county, was here last night to deliver to the State Hospital for the Insane W. L. Duke, of Wilmington, his commitment being on complaint of his wife and a son-in-law, and a life pension of $20 per month from the Atlantic Coast Line Railroad Co., being said to be involved, the motive of his kin people being alleged to be the control of this income. However, Dr. L. J. Picot and Dr. Jas. McKee, of the State Hospital, both examined the patient and ruled that he is not insane, or at least not sufficiently so to justify his entrance in the hospital. They refused to receive him, setting up the further ground that the papers were not properly made out with physician's certificate and subscribing witness. Deputy Cox and Duke have returned to Wilmington.

An order is expected at any time by Postmaster Briggs from Washington for him to open a postol savings bank department in connection with the postoffice here. The necessary supplies are already here and the order for the service to begin is all that is needed.

THE MEXICAN CAMPAIGN.

Madero Fails of His Choice for Vice-Presidential Nomination.

Mexico City, September 2.—Jose Pino Suarez, Governor of Yucatan, won the nomination for vice-president on the Progressive ticket against Dr. Francisc Vasquez Gomez tonight by a final vote of 876 to 469. Many delegates did not vote on the last ballot while a number cast blank ballots, these going to the credit of the man with the majority.

In contrast to some of the earlier scenes in the convention its close was marked by an exceptional degree of orderliness.

Refusal of the minority to cast its votes for either of the remaining candidates for the vice-presidency resulted tonight in the calling of Francisco I. Madero before the convention to define his relations with Dr. Vasquez Gomez, who ran second to Pino Suarez by 99 votes on the second ballot.

The head of the ticket was subjected to a grilling by the delegates, but after frankly expressing his disapproval of Dr. Vasquez, he adroitly turned by putting them on record to support the tables on the dissatisfied element the winning candidate, whoever he might be.

In the ballot in question, Fernando Iglesias Calderon, receiving the minority vote, was eliminated in accordance with the rules. Backers of both Pino Suarez and Vasquez Gomez had depended on the Calderon vote for a majority in the final vote. Party leaders of the Calderon faction, however, declared that they would vote no more.

Order was restored only when it was agreed that Madero himself should be brought face to face with the convention. A committee was sent to Madero's home, and in less than half an hour returned with the nominee for president. The ovation tendered him as he entered the auditorium was such as to indicate that whatever the division of opinion might be regarding the vice-presidential candidates the House was united for Madero for President. Finally the chairman, Sanchez Aszcona stated the case to Madero who criticised many acts in the career of his old running mate Gomez, both during the revolution and since. The chief point lodged against him was that he had accepted the leadership of a rival party, of which his brother, Emilo Vasquez, is the choice for the Presidency.

That these remarks were far from pleasing to the friends of Gomez was evident by the interruptions that came from many parts of the House. Pertinent and impertinent questions were hurled at Madero, but the speaker made no direct answer, and added to the surprise by declaring that since he had spoken harshly of Vasquez Gomez he wished to state Pina Suarez was not his candidate. He declared he had at no time supported the Yucatan governor, and had absolutely no preference between the two men. He added, however, that he would accept any man named by the convention.

Madero tried to stampede the convention for a dark horse.

In a final effort to induce the minority to vote the leader of the Calderon faction was called to the stage. He insisted that they would not cast their vote for any other candidate already named, but suggested, like Madero, that another man be proposed and he suggested the candidacy of Federico Gonzales Garza, one of Madero's advisers during the revolution. The delegates hooted down the suggestion and prepared for the final vote.

when he stopped his machine, to fix it and when a machine load of boys, who already have testified for the commonwealth, passed him.

Just before court closed today Judge Watson denied a request of the defense to take the prisoner to Richmond tonight. Mr. Smith said he wanted to confer with the accused all day tomorrow to show him a list of questions to be asked on direct examination on Monday. Mr. Smith said it would be more convenient for him to talk with Beattie at the city jail there than in Chesterfield jail.

Judge Watson in a courteous reply regretted that he could not oblige Mr. Smith because people in Richmond had complained to him of the spectacle which had been made by the prisoner being taken in an automobile through the streets where crowds invariably gathered. Mr. Smith did not press the point.

One of the incidents of the day which revealed the way the Beattie family itself had split over the case, occurred when Frederick Beattie, a cousin of the accused, took the stand.

"What relation are you to the accused, and also to Paul Beattie?" asked Mr. Smith of the defense.

"A first cousin to Henry and a second to Paul, the same relation that Henry is."

The witness emphasized "second cousin," and those in the court room recalled that when Paul took the stand and said he was a first cousin to Henry, the latter half audibly corrected—"second cousin."

In the cross-examination, Prosecutor Wendenburg asked an identical question that had been asked the witness earlier in the examination. The witness was irritated at the repetition.

"Well, don't turn so savagely," said Mr. Wendenburg, to the witness as the latter scowled at him.

"I'm just as quick as you," retorted Beattie, and the court ended the tilt, defining the relations of a witness to the lawyers at the bar.

One of the strange episoues of the trial is the predicament of Charles H. Kestleberg, who testified today. Tonight he asked Attorney Smith of the defense to smooth over his difficulties by talking with his wife as to the necessity for giving the testimony he did.

"My wife weighs nearly 300 pounds," said Kestleberg sadly tonight, "and I don't know what effect the expose will have on her. I simply had to tell what I knew, however, after those boys had testified and I did so without regard to the consequences for me."

Court convened at 11:30 o'clock and Eliza Moseley, a colored woman, took the stand. Judge Watson announced that the woman had told him she had heard a gunshot on the Midlothian turnpike the night of the murder and that he had asked her, though ill, to come to court and testify. The judge asked her, when sworn, if she was at home the night of the tragedy. She said she was, and that she heard a report of a gun around half past 10 o'clock.

"I heard nothing besides the noise of the gun and the blowing of an automobile horn," said the woman.

"When did the horn blow?"

"Just after I heard a noise like the starting of a machine."

"How many minutes," asked Juror Hancock, "elapsed between the report of the gun and the starting of the machine?"

"About five or six minutes."

"Is that a guess?" asked counsel for the defense.

"Yes," said the woman. She was then excused.

SIEGLE CASE REVIVED

Chinaman Arrested in Restaurant in Hoboken and Rumors Spread

New York, Sept. 2.—The unsolved mystery of the murder of Elsie Seigel, now more than two years old, once more claimed attention today following the arrest of a Chinese by immigration inspectors, who, last night raided a restaurant in Hoboken.

Although the immigration outhorities declined to explain what relation if any, the arrest had with the Siegel case, it was reported today that the police had found an important clue.

Ostesibly the prisoner, Gee Gow was arrested on suspicion of having smuggled fellow countrymen into the United States in violation of the immigration laws.

Elsie Siegel was a granddaughter of Gen. Franz Siegel.

Her body, bearing unmistakable marks of violence, was found in a trunk in a Chinese resort and the search for her murderer was conducted almost exhaustively in Chinese settlements throughout the country. Although several arrests were made, no definite clue ever was obtained.

LOWER COTTON GOODS RATES.

North Carolina Mills Benefitted by Interstate Board's Ruling.

Washington, Sept. 2.—Permission was granted today to the Southern Railway, the Durham & Southern Railway and other railroads by the Interstate Commerce Commission to establish lower freight rates on cotton piece goods from manufacturing points in Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina to Ohio and Mississippi river transfrs and to various points in Virginia, including Richmond, Norfolk, and Alexandria, for shipment beyond, than are concurrently in effect to intermediate points.

In granting the permission, the Commission expressly stipulates that the rates established, which are three cents a hundred pounds higher than existing rates to the various transfer points, must be held as subject to complaint and review at any time.

Hereafter the Brinson Railroad Company will be permitted by the Interstate Commerce Commission to make the same rates on all freight from and to Waynesboro and Savannah, as are in effect over other lines of railroad, irrespective of the long-and-short-haul provision of the law.

Authority also was granted by the Commission today to the Carolina & Northwestern Railway to establish freight rats on granite and stone from Chester, Spartanburg and Winnsboro, to all destinations outside of South Carolina lower than are in effect to intermediate points. The permission was granted because of the opening of new quarries at or near the cities named.

WIND 106 MILES AN HOUR.

Forecaster Computes Hurricane Maximum—Freshets Reported.

Charleston, S. C., Sept. 2.—Forecaster Cole figures that the maximum wind velocity of the hurricane was 106 miles an hour, from the east at 11:50 o'clock. The wind gauge became defective and refused to register properly at the weather bureau after 11:30 o'clock, its last reading being 94 miles an hour. By comparison with the report from the Charleston Museum, Mr. Cole figures that the speed went to 106 miles. The Charleston navy yard is said to have recorded 125 miles an hour.

The weather continues to be unsettled, but there is nothing for any apprethension in the situation. The low pressure in the Gulf seems to have dissipated, but the hurricane has disturbed conditions on the coast, and is causing the rain the wake of the storm.

Heavy rains have caused the rivers to boom in places at a lively rate. Today Mr. Cole sent out flood warnings for the Peedee at Cheraw and Smithville. The former place will show the flood stage in 24 hours, and the latter in nine days. Warnings were also issued for Effingham on the Lynch river, where the flood conditions will be reached in nine days.

DOUBLE TRAGEDY ENACTED.

Horror of Divorce is the Cause of the Crimes Near Vienna.

Vienna, Sept. 2.—Horror of divorce has been the cause of a double tragedy at a hotel at Klosters, a holiday resort near Davos, Switzerland, where a woman committed suicide after killing her husband.

A few days ago a young Russian named Hirschfield, who was in an advanced stage of consumption, arrived at the hotel and was followed a few hours afterwards by his wife, a woman of remarkable beauty. The next day one of the chambermaids entered their bedroom and found Fraud Ritschfield lying dead on the floor, her hand still grasping a revolver, while the body of her husband was stretched on the bed.

Correspondence found in the room showed that while Herr Hirschfield was at a sanatorium at Davos his wife had been staying at Lucerne. As the result of a communication he began divorce proceedings, but Fraud Hirschfield wrote a letter asking for a last appointment. Apparently the consumptive husband declined to stay the proceedings, and Frau Hirschfield, frightened at the idea of divorce, killed her husband and shot herself.

A SOCIALISTIC IDEA

Man in Greensboro Wants Municipally Owned Meat Markets

Greensboro, N. C., Sept. 2.—Before the city commissioners yesterday afternoon, Mr. W. M. Weatherly, a Socialist of the city, presented an ordinance providing for municipal ownership of the meat and produce market, the same to be effective January 1st, next. Mr. Weatherly spoke for some time in support of his hobby, but apparently the commissioners did not take kindly to the proposition. Mr. Weatherly argued that if the city could take charge of the market and handle the meats and produce perfect sanitary conditions would be insured and a saving of 20 to 30 per cent. would be made for the consumers. He assured the commissioners that if this ordinance was not adopted he and other citizens would resort to the referendum.

The directors of the North Carolina Railroad Company were in session here yesterday and approved the bonds put up by the Southern Railway to insure the performance of the conditions of its lease of the State's railroad. Other routine business was transacted. There was a full attendance of members.

COTTON BILLS OF LADING

Central Bureau Ignored by Banks and Railroads at New Orleans

New Orleans, Sept. 2.—Although the local banks and the railroads are ignoring the central bureau cotton bills of lading validation plan, which went into effect in New York yesterday, the Leyland and Harrison steamship lines, operating out of this port to Europe, have established the new system and in future will abide by the requirements of the Liverpool bills of lading committee.

DEPUTY SLAYS ANOTHER

Louisiana Officer Killed by Texan at Lake on Boundary

Shreveport, Sept. 2.—Deputy Sheriff Clay Flannigan, of this State, was shot and killed by Deputy Sheriff Walter Aiken, of Harrison county, Texas, near the Texas State line, yesterday. Aiken is said to have surrendered to the Marshall, Texas, officers.

The deputies had been assigned to Caddo Lake to co-operate in enforcing the game laws.

ample guarantee to America that it requires but an incentive in order to crystalize mutual sympathy into a political fact. May this beautiful ceremony hasten such a happy consummation.

"As special envoys of the President of the United States we have the distinguished honor of asking Your Majesty to accept this statue as a token of the sincere friendship of the American Government and people for Your Majesty and the people of Germany."

His majesty, replying to Representative Bartholdt, expressed the cordial thanks of himself and the German people to President Taft and the American people for "this beautiful monument."

"We are glad," said the Emperor, "to possess on German soil the image presented to us by America of that excellent German who, with inspiring self-sacrifice and unassuming performance of duty, devoted his energies to the cause of the American people.

"You have referred properly to the blood relationship and to the uninterrupted friendship which bind together the German and American nations, and which always will bind them more closely. May I express the hope that you will act as the interpreter of these, my feelings, to the President of the American people."

When the Emperor had concluded his address he signalled that the statue should be unveiled, and stood up with his officers, at salute while the American anthem was played and a guard of honor defiled before the statue.

Emperor William conversed for some time concerning the statue with the sculptor, Albert Jaegers, whom his majesty decorated with the red eagle of the fourth class.

After Ambassador Hill's audience with the Emperor luncheon was served in the marble hall of the palace.

During the luncheon his majesty offered a toast to President Taft, and as an expression of his gratitude for the monument called on all present to join him in three hurrahs for the American President. Later he sent this cablegram to President Taft:

"The Stuben monument has just been unveiled. In my own name and in the name of the German people, I thank you most heartily for this beautiful gift, which bears such gratifying testimony to the friendship between the German and American nations."

The Steuben monument has been erected in the commandanteur garden immediately under the walls of the Potsdam palace from the windows of which the Empress and Mrs. Hill watched the ceremony.

A liberal display of the Stars and Stripes was used in the decorations at Potsdam and Berlin in honor of the unveiling.

GIFT TO G. F. C.

Davidson County Farmer Gives $10,000 Conditionally

Greensboro, Sept. 2.—Mrs. Lucy Roberson, president of the Greensboro Female College, was yesterday notified of a gift of $10,000 toward the erection of a new dormitory for the college, J. W. Fitzgerald, of Davidson county being the generous donor. The gift is the largest individual one that has ever been received by the college. Mr. Fitzgerald offers the $10,000 on the condition that $15,000 be raised by the college toward building the new dormitory

Owing to the wonderful growth the college has experienced since its reerection after the fire several years ago, many young women have been necessarily turned away during the past two terms on account of the lack of accommodations. Several months ago the trustees decided to build a new $24,000 dormitory and Treasurer W. M. Curtis was sent to work in an endeavor to raise the amount. Besides the gift of Mr. Fitzgerald $6,000 has already been raised, making the goal but $9,000 distant.,

TAFT'S VETO OF WOOL BILL

What It Means to Country—Trust Officials Say "Let Us Alone"—The Richest Baby—On the Job.

(By Clyde H. Tavenner.)

Washington, Sept. 2.—President Taft's veto of the wool bill means there will be no reduction this Winter in the price of woolen clothing of any sort for men, women and children, nor in the prices of blankets, nor any other forms of woolen manufactures needed for warmth by the general public.

And just so much as the public would have saved in cheaper woolens, together with the amount the farmers would have saved in cheaper agricultural implements had the President signed the free list bill, will be transferred unjustly to the coffers of the woolen trust and the harvester trust, two star contributors to the Republican campaign fund.

What is the President's defense for refusing to permit a reduction in the cost of living? Let us see. First, he makes the point the wool bill was unconsidered, when as a matter of fact, the Ways and Means Committee put in three months of sincere investigation and study before the bill was framed, which is twice the length of time given to the consideration of the woolen schedule of the Payne-Aldrich bill, and which document the President readily signed.

Second, the President asks that the people continue to pay exorbitant prices for woolens until he hears from his tariff board, which is packed with men who take the high-protection viewpoint, and whose chief agents and alleged "impartial" investigators abroad are writing back articles for American newspapers ridiculing and belittling the crying demand of the consumers for tariff revision downward.

Mr. Taft's message against cheaper woolens will go down as a document of misrepresentation, false pretense and excuses. The real reason the President vetoed the various tariff bills was not stated in any of his messages. It was because he was under obligations to the beneficiaries of the Payne-Aldrich law to serve their interests instead of the public interest. Mr. Taft was elected President with a campaign fund contributed by special privilege. Then, having done this the great tariff trusts extended further aid (and placed Taft further in their debt) by frightening their employes into voting for Taft with the threat that their factories and mills would be closed down unless he was elected. And, just as he was the candidate of special privilege, Mr. Taft is revealed in his veto message as also the President of special privilege.

Thus it is shown again how protection makes politics a business proposition. The trusts contribute campaign funds to the party of the high protection wall with the intention of not only recovering from the public the amount of such contributions in excessive prices, but stupendous dividends as profits. Mr. Taft proved an exceptionally good investment for the tariff trusts.

"Let Us Alone."

The trust officials who appeared before the various investigating committees of Congress this Summer, including G. W. Perkins, complained because the Democrats were too active in inquiring into their business methods. "Let us alone" is their favorite wail whenever a move is made to determine in what manner they are exacting tribute from the people. "The tendency to distrust big corporations," said Mr. Perkins, "is hurting business. Business desires to go ahead unmolested."

The "let us alone" policy would suit the trusts exactly. Having gobbled everything in sight, naturally they resent interference. With the tariff so high that they have a monopoly on all the necessities of life, and the anti-trust law so interpreted that restraint of trade is not restraint so long as it is "reasonable," they are safe from competition, and immune from prosecution. Hence their desire to be let alone.

In the meantime, how about prices? Ten years ago a pair of five pound woolen blankets could be bought for $3.75; today they cost $5. At that time the price of five yards of serge cloth, 50 inches wide, was $3.75; the price now is $6.25. Ten years ago 20 yards of unbleached cotton cloth could be bought for $1.20; today the cost is $2.20; Five yards of all wool flannel could be purchased then for $2.75, the price now is $6.25. Flour sold for $3.50 less per barrel during the Civil War than it does now.

"The Richest Baby."

Judson C. Welliver, one of the very few Washington newspaper and magazine writers, who write what they think, has an article in Hampton's Magazine this month which is of especial interest, now that President Taft has vetoed the cotton bill. This article is an account of how the cotton millionaires keep up their fat dividends—amounting in some instances to 100 per cent. annually—and at the same time continue to plead for high tariff, without which they contend they will starve to death. Mr. Welliver begins his article with a photograph of one James Nicholas Brown, aged 11, whose wealth is estimated in the hundreds of millions, every cent of which was made out of the highly protected New England cotton manufacturing industry. "In 1908, the panic year," Mr. Welliver writes, "the cotton trust calmly paid its usual fat dividends. True, its already underpaid labor had to suffer sharp reductions; true, the wearers of its products had to pay increased prices. But that was unimportant to the cotton millionaires. They would have their dividends, and they got them. They had the power to extort them. They could pay as low wages and charge as high prices as they chose. The tariff wall held them secure in their domination. Senator Lippitt predicts this country will be plunged into the worst sort of a panic if the regular flow of profits into the coffers of the richest baby of the world is shut off.

On the Job.

The interesting announcement has been made that former Senator Nelson Aldrich, of Rhode Island, has purchased a home on the fashionable Massachusetts avenue, near Sheridan Circle, in Washington, and that he intends to make his future home in the capital. The announcement is of exceptional interest, inasmuch as the tariff fight in Congress, within the next two or three years, is to be fought to a finish.

TRADING ... WILMINGTON

Wilmington Trade Extension Association is Making Good

The Wilmington Trade Extension Association is moving along with every evidence of success. With only three weeks of active operation the good reputation of the Association has been established to a marked degree and about 30 fares have been refunded to customers who did their trading with members of the organization.

As time passes the offer of the Wilmington merchants for trade throughout the territory grows with unabated interest and many of the customers who have taken advantage of the opportunity declare that the attractive offer brought them here to trade.

The advertising is being successfully distributed with the aid of local merchants and newspapers, who have published articles sent out from here, asserting their faith in the merits of the trade extension movement.

It is assured that the Association will eventually prove a distinct feature in the development of the trade interests of Wilmington and will bring a share of the trade here that has annually been going to Northern markets.

Miss Josephine Reed, a dashing girl of 18, and J. R Reed, both of Baltimore, were taken into custody last night while occupying a wicker conveyance, spooning and spent the night in jail. This morning friends paid a fine of $25 each for the prisoners.

FOR DEEPER WATERWAYS

Forthcoming Convention in Richmond Will be Important—Gov. Woodrow Wilson to Attend — Prominent Speakers.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Washington, D. C., Sept. 2.—Governor Woodrow Wilson, of New Jersey, who looms large in the public eye as a Presidential figure, will be the stellar attraction at the fourth annual convention of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association, which will be held in the city of Richmond, Va., October 17th to 20th.

Last year the association held its annual convention at Providence, R. I., and the entertainment afforded the delegates was notable in character and on a scale of magnificence such as is rarely witnessed at conventions of this character. Richmond, however, with its stainless record for hospitality, purposes a series of entertainments for the delegates that it is hoped will at least rival the efforts of its sister city to the north in the way of prodigal entertainment.

While Providence has its clam bake, Richmond will have its oyster roast and its terrapin. In addition to the toothsome delicacies the Capital City of the Old Dominion and the great objective of the Civil war, offers an endless variety of scenes, not only associated with the last half of the nineteenth century, but connected with the early beginnings of the country's history.

In addition to Governor Wilson a number of other executives of States interested in the Atlantic Deeper Waterway movement will participate in the exercises of the convention, Governor Mann, of Virginia, delivering the speech of welcome to the delegates. Among other governors expected are Austin L. Crothers, of Maryland; John K. Tener, of Pennsylvania; Arum J. Pothier, of Rhode Island; George Abner Mead, of Vermont; William W. Kitchin, of North Carolina, and possibly several others.

There will also be a number of United States Senators and Representatives present and participate in the deliberations of the convention, and who are interested in this great project, which means so much to the commerce of the nation.

Representative J. Hampton Moore, of Philadelphia, president of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association, one of the originators of the scheme for an inland passage from Maine to Florida, and a "live wire" in Congress, in an interview on the purposes of this great project, said: "In the rivers and harbors act of March 3, 1909, Congress authorized a survey for a continuous inland waterway along the Atlantic seaboard from New England to Key West, and thence along the Gulf to the Mississippi river. That survey has since been going on under the direction of the United States army engineers, and ought to be reported upon when Congress convenes in regular session.

The territory through which the proposed Atlantic inland waterway runs is inhabitated by approximately 30,000,000 of people. There is no section of the country so prolific in manufacturing industries and inter-state commerce. This vast business which began when canals were the principal means of communication, was speedily absorbed by the railroads, with the result that today the best canals remaining along the Atlantic coast are the Chesapeake & Delaware which unite the Delaware and Chesapeake Bays and the Delaware and Raritan which connects New York with Philadelphia and points south. Neither of these canals has been much improved since their construction three-quarters of a century ago. They are doing business but they are in no sense competitors of modern transportation companies, and as levelers of rates they are practically useless. That they are capable of enormous service has been demonstrated time and time again through the effects of the Atlantic Deeper Waterways Association which reviewed in 1897 the agitation for relief, through waterways, of the congested freight conditions then prevailing. At largely attended conventions held first at Philadelphia, and then in regular annual order at Baltimore, Norfolk and Providence, resolutions were adopted which leave no room for doubt as to the value of and the necessity for inland waterway improvements along the coast."

RED CROSS SEAL CAMPAIGN.

National Office in Washington—Plan Now to Sell 100,000,000.

New York, Sept. 2.—If expectations for the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals this year, as announced by the National Association for the Study and Prevention of Tuberculosis today, are realized, one hundred million of the holiday stickers, or a million dollars, worth, will be sold.

The National Tuberculosis Association will this year for the first time be National Agent for the American Red Cross in handling the sale of seals. A new National office has been opened in Washington, and an initial order has been placed for 50,000,000 seals, although it is expected that double that number will be sold. The charge to local agents for the seals will be 12 1-2 per cent. of the gross proceeds, the National agent furnishing the seals and advertising material, and taking back all unsold seals at the end of the season.

Postmaster General Hitchcock has approved of the design of the seal. Owing to the fact that many people last year used Red Cross Seals for postage, the Postoffice Department has given orders that letters or packages bearing seals on the face will not be carried through the mails.

This will be the third year that the seals have been sold on a National basis. In 1908 over $135,000 was realized from the sale; in 1909, nearly $225,000; and in 1910 nearly $310,000. The slogan for this year's sale is "A Million for Tuberculosis from Red Cross Seals."

New York State led the sale last year with 5,955,872 seals, Ohio coming next with 3,743,427, and Wisconsin third with 2,770,112. In addition to these, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut, California and Rhode Island sold over a million each. Nashville, Tenn, selling 200,000 was the only city receiving over 100,000 seals which sold every one of them.

A TON OF PLATINUM

Precious Metals Used in Manufacture of the Telephone

New York, N. Y., Sept. 2.—It is an interesting fact, and one probably not generally known, that the precious metals, such as platinum, gold, silver and even precious stones, are used extensively in the manufacture of telephone apparatus.

An official of the Western Electric Company, the largest manufacturer of telephone apparatus in the world, recently made the statement that this company is making use of more than a ton of platinum each year. When it is considered that the value of platinum is 30 per cent. greater than pure gold, it can be easily seen that this expensive metal would not be used unless results justify it. Experience has shown, however, that platinum, because it possesses the necessary hardness to resist wear and is absolutely none-corrodible, is the best metal for the contact points in telephone apparatus. That is way this company uses more than half a million dollar's worth in the course of a year and platinum is going up every year at that.

The chief supply of platinum comes from the Ural Mountains in Russia, but the best yields have been exhausted and the expense of extraction increases while the yield decreases. Only very small quantities of this useful metal have been found in America, and while attempts have been made to develop a supply, especially from some of the sands in the Pacific States, little can be hoped for in this direction. The present indications are that Russia will continue to supply over ninety-five per cent. of the total consumption.

Definition of "Grouch."

Grouch is a variant of "grutch," the origin of which has been sought, but not found. It means sullen, morose, peevish.

GOSSIP OF FOREIGN CAPITALS

Death of Cardinal Moran—Experiment Around Rome—Well Known Conter Dead in Germany. Foreign Students.

Rome, Sept. 2.—The death recently of Cardinal Moran of Sydney created the 23rd vacancy in the Sacred College, the present composition of which, and its probable action in the event of an early Conclave, are always subjects of lively interest and particularly so since the latest indisposition of the Pope.

Of the 64 Cardinals who elected the present Pontiff, 31 have since died. Four years has elapsed since Pius X. held his last consistory in which new Cardinals were created, and the present membership of the Sacred College is made up of one Cardinal, Oreglia di Santo Stefano, created by Pius IX; 30 created by Leo XIII, and 16 chasen by the present Pontiff, which means that the last represent one-third of the whole.

If, therefore, there should be a conclave under present conditions, it is doubtful whether what many people confidently expect would take place, that is, the election of Leo XIV, who would be Cardinal Rampolla. To be elected Pope, it is necessary to have two-thirds of the voters in one's favor, and while not all the old Cardinals who opposed the ex-Secretary of State in the Conclave of 1903 are now favorable to his candidature, it would be difficult for him to gather votes among those created by Pius X.

This situation will be considerably altered by the addition of the new Cardinals, which cannot fail to come soon, either at the end of this year, immediately after the close of the festivities of the Italian Jubilee, or at the beginning of 1912, but the change, it is believed, will not be in favor of the possible candidacy for the Papacy of Cardinal Rampollo, or of one of the wearers of the purple of the time of Leo XIII. This for the reason that the influence of the new element is being felt more and more strongly.

Predictions are largely guess-work, but the prevailing sentiment appears to be that Cardinal Del Lai, secretary of the Consistorial Congregation, would be one of the most favored candidates for the Papal crown.

Like Pius X., he comes from the Venetian Provinces, is most energetic, active and intelligent, uniting all the qualities necessary to make an Iron Pope, and having no past which has committed him to any particular policy, would be freer and stronger than any of the Cardinals who, like Rampolla, Vannutelli, Agliardi, were candidates in the last Conclave and whose election would have meant a special direction in the policy of the Holy See.

* * *

The preliminary investigations to be later submitted to the Congregation of Rites, to decide whether the "Servant of God" Pius IX, will be admitted to the process of Beatification, and Canonization, continue here with unabated ardor, especially in the dioceses of Senigallia Imola, Spoleto, Naples and Gaeta, where that Pope lived in the most trying period of his long and stormy ecclesiastical life.

In each of these places special diocesan tribunals have been formed to collect evidence, to hear witnesses, to put together all the writings which can be found of the Pontiff. At Imola alone 800 letters have already been discovered, and are now in the possession of that tribunal which is submitting them to a close investigation.

Until his recent illness, Pope Pius X, following the advice of his physicians, took daily walks in the Vatican gardens, and has even gone as far as the famous observatory, directed, as is known, by an American ecclesiastic, Father John J. Hagan, formerly of the Georgetown Observatory. Father Hagan wished to show the three old towers which form his group of observatories to the Pontiff, but Pius X, shook his head laughingly, saying, "I can come and look at them from the outside, and even come to your door, but I cannot climb your flights of stairs. I must wait until another American friend of yours, generous as the one who gave the 'American bridge,' will present you with an American elevator."

The Pontiff referred to a bridge connecting two antique walls between the observatories, along which one can now walk in safety, thanks to an American.

An interesting experiment is being carried on the arid district about Rome, along the sea coast, and among the Abruzzi mountains, which has been possible only through private charity.

Illiteracy has always been a characteristic of the Italian peasant, especially in the South; so much so that while the percentage in the North is almost negligible, that of the South is so great as to raise that of the whole kingdom to about 50 per cent. Education is obligatory, but it is difficult to enforce when the peasant cannot even dress his large family decently, and the children perhaps have to tramp miles for the privilege of attending school while in the mountains or in deserted districts there are often no schools available.

It is just this want which is met by the present plan. What are called "Moving Schools" have been established in districts where there are no regular schools, and they are in one spot today and far away tomorrow. They comprise night schools for the workers, Summer schools for the peasants coming down from the mountains to the plains, and children's classes in the open air or set up under any available shelter.

In Berlin.

Berling, Sept. 2.—The death recently of Herr von Poschinger, the well known writer on Bismarck, calls attention anew to the unpublished third volume of Bismarck's Memoirs, in which the German public is deeply interested.

It has been long reported that this volume, which is said to be securely locked up in the vaults of a London bank, would give the inside story of Bismarck's dismissal from office. It was even surmised that it would take the form of a furious attack upon the present Emperor.

An article by von Poschginger, however, which has been published since his death, indicates that public curiosity will be disappointed if it expects anything of this sort. He stood very close to Bismarck and should know what is in the unpublished volume if anybody does. He says there will be no attack on the Emperor, and he quotes a characteristic utterance of Bismarck's made soon after his retirement. To a visitor who urged him to publish his full memoirs at once Bismarck replied that he had always been a staunch royalist, and it would be inconsistent in him to publish abroad to all the world the weaknesses that he sa Chancellor had detected in the three monarchs with whom he had been so intimately associated.

Poschinger goes on to say that Bismarck fully recognized the high talents of the Emperor, and that he did not even take it ill that his royal master wished to get rid of him. He was hurt only by the mode chosen for getting him out of office.

According to figures just published, the proportion of foreign students to German students studying at the German Universities this Summer underwent a further increase. At all the universities there were 57,230 students of whom 4,519 were foreigners. This is equal to 7.9 per cent. of the whole, against 7.6 per cent. last year, and 7 per cent. 20 years ago. Of foreign countries Russia sent by far the largest number, 2,040. There were 292 Americans, against 299 last year.

The perennial question of a constitution for the twin duchies of Mecklenburg-Schwerin and Mecklenburg-Strellitz has again come to the front through a sharp interview between a deputation of the nobility and the Grand Duke of the second half of the little State.

Mecklenburg is the only German State having no constitution, although it is generally assumed that representative institutions are guaranteed to the people of the different German States by the constitution of the Empire. The Imperial government has been repeatedly interpellated in the Reichstag as to what steps it proposed to take to guarantee a constitution to the Mecklenburgs, but the Chancellor has in each case refused to interfere, claiming that the question was a local matter to be settled between the two rukers and their people.

At Present the government of the two duchies is autocratic, only tempered by certain powers held by the organized nobility. After the agitation of the question had continued for several years the two Grand Dukes decided that it would be wisest to yield to the popular demand for a constitution and published a draft for such a document. After long and tedious deliberations, however, it was rejected by the nobility as being too democratic. The matter rested there till several weeks ago, when the nobility met at Rostock and formulated their ultimate concessions for a new constitution. Their proposals amounted to a demand for a lower house completely dominated by the great landowners; and the members of even such a chamber were not to be chosen by popular election. The nobility laid their scheme for the constitution before the Grand Duke of Mecklenburg-Schwerin at the end of July, but he mildly rejected them.

The Grand Duke of the Strelitz half of the State was more emphatic in the remarks he made to a deputation of the nobility several days ago. He pointed out to them that the scheme they proposed amounted to a surrender of sovereign rights on his part for the aggrandizement of the nobility. He was quite willing, he added, to surrender his autocratic rights in behalf of the people at large, but he would never do so to turn them over to the nobility. The times demand a representative assembly, he said, in which the intelligence of the people can find its proper representation to assist in solving the problems of government. The further course of developments is not clear. At present the whole question has reached, apparently, a hopeless deadlock, the nobility being able to checkmate any action undertaken by the dukes, and being determine to use this power to the utmost.

UNIFORM STATE LAWS

Important Recommendations By Committee to Bar Association

Boston, Mass, Aug. 29.—Acts relative to wife and child deserters and to the probating in one State of wills made in another State were recommended for endorsement by the American Bar Association in the report of the committee on uniform State laws submitted at tonight's session of the annual meeting of the Association in this city. The report states that the desertion act already has been passed in five States, Washington, Kansas, Rhode Island, Michigan and Wisconsin. It provides for punishment of deserters by imprisonment at hard labor a portion of the proceeds of such labor to be devoted to the support of the deserted wife or children. While the committee does not deem it advisable to recommend the passage of this specific act in all states, owing to the diversity of State laws on the subject of imprisonment at hard labor and the internal management of penal institutions it urges that the Bar Association endorse the principle of the act.

The so-called foreign wills act has been passed in the States of Kansas, North Dakota, Massachusetts and Wisconsin. Under its provisions a will executed in any State in the mode prescribed by the law of that State or of the State in which the testator was his legal domicile will be of the same force and effect in the States adopting this act, even though the latter states man have laws not complied with in execution of the will. The committee recommends the endorsement by the Association of this act as desirable for adoption in every State.

The progress of the movement for uniformity of State laws on various subjects, as promoted by the Conference of Commissioners on Uniform State Laws, is shown in the following statistics presented in the report:

"The negotiable instruments act has been passed in thirty-fiv states, two territories, the District of Columbia and two possessions.

The Warehouse Receipts Act in twenty-one States and territories and the District of Columbia.

The Sales Act in eight States and one territory.

The Uniform Divorce Act in three States.

The Stock Transfer Act in five States.

The Bills of Lading Act in six States.

The Wills Act in four States.

The Family Desertion Act in five States.

All of the States, territories and possessions are now represented in the conference, either by virtu of lgislative action or otherwise, excepting the State of Nevada."

Coffee to Relieve Fatigue.

The question is sometimes asked: What will relieve fatigue more quickly than anything else? Clerks in stores and men generally as well as women shoppers become at times very tired. Fortunately the British army has thrashed the question out, and tried every kind of decoction that could be thought of, and we may profit by their experience. They, award the palm to coffee, and declare it has neither superior nor equal for this purpose.

COMMERCIAL LAW

Committee Makes Several Recommendation to Bar Association

Boston, Aug. 30.—A recommendation that the American Bar Association oppose any attempt toward the repeal of the National Bankruptcy Act is contained in the report of the committee on commercial law, presented tonight at the annual meeting of the Association in this city. The committee urges that the Association exert every endeavor to secure the defeat of the bill to repeal the bankruptcy act introduced by Representative Clayton and now pending in Congress. Other recommendations made by the committee are:

That the American Bar Association give all assistance in its power in securing the enactment of the Uniform Acts on negotiable instruments, warehouse receipts, sales, bills of lading, and transfer of stock.

That the committee on commercial law give further consideration to the subject of Federal legislation on bills of lading and hold public meetings for the purpose of obtaining the opinions of experts thereon.

That the American Bar Association approve the purpose of the International Conference for the Unification of Laws concerning Bills of Exchange and Promissory Notes, and urge the continued participation of the United States in the conferences, and that the committee on commercial law be given power to take up with the committee on international law the subject of said conference.

The uniform acts mentioned in the recommendations have been passed in many States, as follows:

Negotiable instruments act, thirty-five States, two territories, two possessions, and the District of Columbia, warehouse receipts act, twenty-one States and terrtories and the District of Columbia, sales act, eight States and one territory, bills of lading act, six States, transfer of stock act, five States.

Immense Mountain of Salt.

In an Island of San Domingo there is a remarkable salt mountain—a mass of crystalline salt, nearly four miles long, estimated to contain nearly 90,000,000 tons, and said to be so clear that medium-sized print can be read through a block a foot thick.

Steamships Run By the Sun.

SCEINCE SOON TO DISPEL DISEASE.

The radient energy falling on the deck of a steamer crossing the ocean—is sufficient, if it could be utilized, to propel the ship with greater speed than is now obtained from coal. Only one-third of the radiation is cut off by the air.

Light has a chemical energy so intense as to destroy micro-organic life. This energy in its different manifestations is a power in continuing life and curing disease. The X-ray which is really concentrated sun light, when applied to some of the less fatal chronic ailments of germ origin has proven very effective as a curative agent. This is the experience of the skilled specialists at Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute in Buffalo. Although this institution was founded many years ago by Dr. R. V. Pierce as a genuine home—not a hospital—for those afflicted with chronic disease yet it has kept abreast of the times and its trained specialists have become Medical authorities in their various lines.

The violet-ray treatment, another interesting proceeding, is produced by concentrating the light, rich in the violet or chemical rays from an arc light with a specially prepared carbon, upon any portion of the body that may be the seat of pain. Sufferers from neuralgia, sciatica, rheumatism, strains, sprains, also from those obscure exhausting pains (the origin of which cannot at times be accurately determined) frequently find immediate relief from a single treatment and usually with a little persistence in the use of this aid, obtain comfortable health or perfect recovery.

The incandescent light bath, consists of a cabinet in which the patient is bathed in the combined rays of many electric light globes. This treatment has produced really wonderful results is diabetes, sciatica, rheumatism, obesity, anemia, and some forms of kidney and heart trouble. It has also proven valuable in chronic bronchitis, bronchial asthma and various skin diseases. As a general hygienic measure its efficiency can scarcely be over-estimated.

The sick who have been treated at Dr. Pierce's Invalids' Hotel, Buffalo, N. Y., have much to say in regard to this wonderfully equipped Sanatarium, where all the above electrical apparatus, as well as electric water baths, Turkish baths, static electric machines, high-frequency current, and other most modern and up-to-date apparatus is used for the cure of chronic diseases. The treatment of chronic diseases that are peculiar to women have for many years been a factor in the cures affected at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute.

The physicians and surgeons employed are among the most experienced and skillful in the country, men who have made these diseases their life study, and whose highest ambition is to excel in their treatment.

How well they have succeeded may be judged from the fact that their practice embraces cases from every State and Territory of the Union as well as from foreign lands. Many thousands are annually treated, either through correspondence or at Dr. Pierce's Institution. It is an old adage that, "Experience makes perfect," and the skilled specialists in this field of practice cure thousands of cases which have been abandoned as incurable by general practitioners. Hundreds are brought to the Institution from far distant states and they go home in a few weeks well and strong. Quite as marvelous are the thousands of cures annually accomplished through correspondence, while the patient remains quietly at home. Others consult in person, and after being examined are provided with specially prepared medicines and return home to carry out the treatment.

In medicine there has been rapid and real progress during recent years, and Dr. Pierce has kept up with the times in that he has had the manufacture and ingredients in his well-known remedies improved in a modern laboratory by skilled chemists, the greatest care being exercised to see that the ingredients entering into his well-known medicines Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription as well as the "Golden Medical Discovery" are extracted from the best variety of native medicinal roots. These are gathered with great care and at the proper season of the year, so that their medicinal properties may be most reliable.

These extracts are then made soluble in pure triple-refined glycerine and bottled.

Everyone who consults the specialists, whether by letter or in person receives the most careful attention.

Great care is exercised not to over encourage those who consult the specialists of this institution that no false hopes may be raised.

Consultation by letter or in person is absolutely free—no charge whatever—so that the public when afflicted are invited to write Dr. Pierce at the Invalids' Hotel and Surgical Institute, Buffalo, N. Y.

GOV. JOS. W. FOLK.

Joseph Wingate Folk, Missouri's choice for the Democratic nomination for President in 1912, is an up-standing, sturdy-like sort of man of medium height and most of his thickness through his shoulders.

He broadens out when your eye is a foot above his waist, and it is this breadth, finished off with a well-shaped head on a strong neck, that makes for the striking impression of sturdiness that hits the casual observer.

If he played golf with professional aspiration, he should make a mighty good drive. Mr. Folk, however, will never be a champion golfer. Like a good many other business men he is on the links at infrequent intervals, for the fun of the thing. He doesn't say "Bully!" or show his teeth, but he looks as if he would make just as much a handful in a fight as a certain eminent American who ran to deeds of physical prowess 'tween whiles of running the world.

Mr. Folk is married. His home life is ideal. It is a pity the phrase is hackneyed and has become time-worn, but it describes the Folk home. Mrs. Folk, cultured and a musician of distinction, is a charming hostess—the most charming ever seen in the mansion at Jefferson City, according to those who should know best. When she came a bride to St. Louis, she won many friends by her tact and courtesy. Social leaders tell yet of a little incident at the World's Fair. It happened at a large musicale at the New York State building.

Mrs. Dore W. Lyon, then supreme in woman's clubs affairs was hotess, and Mrs. Folk, as one of the many guests, had an inconspicuous seat and took only a guest's and onlooker's part in the festivities of the afternoon. Quite a chance Mrs. Lyon noticed her and made inquiry.

"Not the wife of the great Folk?" gasped the hostess, apparently amazed that the helpmeet of one so renowned in St. Louis should be so retiring; and thereafter that afternoon Mrs. Lyon insisted on Mrs. Folk being at her side, and thus began a firm and lasting friendship.

Mr. Folk's home affairs take up a very large part of his spare moments, but he does find time for an occasional afternoon at a baseball game. He is an enthusiastic admirer of the chief American sport, enjoys it keenly and understands it thoroughly. It is a delight to sit with him through a game; his sense of justice and desire for fair play are as strong here as they were in the prosecutor's office or the executive halls.

Mr. Folk has been a wide reader, and it began early. It is not given every youth to enjoy the wealth of printed word that had been gathered in the library of his father, himself one of the most eminent of the South's lawers. He has been far too busy a man for light reading or thinking, for cards or some games with which many divert their minds or turn the channel of their attention It has been told though that during his service as Circuit Attorney of St. Louis, when he had been through a long day of battle and excitement he would sometimes find pre-occupation if not actual amusement in a most unusual way. He would sit himself down at night in a quiet room and wrestle with problems in algebra, the more difficult the better for his purpose, and goodness knows few of them are easy.

He pored over many a problem. For in those days the struggle between right and wrong in St. Louis, the fight between the people's law servant and organized thievery and injustice, endured from day to day, not excepting Sundays and holidays. So Mr. Folk nightly had the opportunity, even if he had not the time, to utilize his knowledge in mathematics.

A man's home life is always an index to his standing among his neighbors. And so Mr. Folk enjoys the respect of all, and their admiration. Dignified, his dignity does not appal; and no one has ever appealed to him in vain in a just cause.

The great army of hunters and fishermen lost a companionable recruit and one very fond of both sports when the fates ordained Mr. Folk to such a busy life that he has had little time for field, forest or stream. He is very fond of hunting. When he was Governor, there was a room in the executive mansion at Jefferson City filled with equipment for the huntsman. There were five rifles and three shotguns and Governor Folk could use them all, for he is a good marksman.

The mansion lacked a kennel, something that had been an institution in former administrations. Governors Francis and Stone in particular had large collections of dogs for the chase and as pets. Governor Francis owned the ugliest dog ever seen in Jefferson City. It was so homely it was dubbed "Calamity," whereat it would wag a friendly tail, thus mutely giving the lie to its name. However, when Governor Folk would ahunting go there was no lack of animals for his use, because Jecrson City is in a famous hunting ground and there's a multitude of trained dogs available of the day.

In the seasons when the rush of business cares lessened he would take frequent though brief trips into Callaway, Boone and neighboring counties, and he never returned empty handed, though boasting of his prowess with the gun was barred by the unwritten executive law.

When it came to fishing, however, the governor admits that he never expects to break any records. He likes to fish, when the inhabitants of the water will nibble with reasonable readiness, but when it comes to sitting on a bank or in a boat, waiting hours on end for a bite, his patience gives out. Also, there has always been so many other things to do. He once went on a big fishing trip in Kentucky, but regarded it as more of an experience than a pleasure.

If smoking be a vice, then Mr. Folk possesses one. He is an inveterate smoker, but does not use tobacco in any other form. Like most devotees of Lady Nicotine who lead an active life he seems to smoke almost unconsciously, deriving his gratification not so much from taste or smell as the mere act of having the beloved cigar in his lips.

While the cigar is his favorite he knows the solace of the pipe, and several are always close at hand for an emergency. He will not have strong tobacco near him, so smoking has not told on his nerves.

He selects his own tobacco and, like most men feared in the South, he does not need any advice or assistance in making his choice.

Those were busy days at Jefferson City, 1904-1908, while Joseph W. Folk was governor. Three legislatures served under him, two regular sessions and one extraordinary. There was enough to do to keep all on the jump, and the governor was the busiest—and apparently the coolest. It came to be a joke among the residents, to be told to all visitors, that should Mr. Folk by chance wander out of sight of the capitol he would be unable to find his way home without making inquiries. Seldom did he get as far away from the executive mansion as High street, a goodish block. Every Sunday morning he attended services at the First Baptist church, of which he is a member. The afternoon and night always found him at home. If there were no visitors—and these occasions were rare—Mr. Folk read. It was a real day of rest with him, the most pressing executive business was tobooed.

Monday found him refreshed and girded for another week of strenuous life. He was always among the early arrivals at the capitol and he did not quit the building until the luncheon hour. Practically all the afternoon was also spent in his office and frequently far into the night the light was burning over his desk. Occasionally when tasks piled too high he would lock the door opening into his private office, take off coat and wade into the work.

It was not a difficult matter to reach him on ordinary days—and all days were pretty much alike—and he always made the visitor as welcome as circumstances would permit.

His desk amazed all. It was stacked two feet high with documents reports, legislative findings, letters, and all manner of printed and written miscellany. It seemed a monument of unstudied disorder but the Governor never had any trouble finding just what he might be wanting right on the minute.

Veteran attaches and employes of the capitol and executive mansion said that Mr. Folk was far and away the most industrious administrator in their recollection and that the results achieved were commensurate with his eorts.

Of course, if one were waiting for a pardon, a respite or an appointment he might think the governor should have applied for a job of driving snails to drink, but there is no record even of any of these persons suffering from delay, or having been unduly put off.

He had the largest mail of any governor in the history of the State. He was punctilious about personally dictating all his letter mail and answers thereto. His miscellaneous bag, that is outside of the inevitable office routine, amounted to about a hundred letters daily, but he would finish it before he went home, let stenographers and clerks fall where they would.

He kept close to his own office. Unlike former executives he did not visit about the capitol. Even during the sessions of the General Assembly he never appeared in either house, as either visitor or official. Occasionally he paid a visit to State penitentiary where he was keenly interested in reformative work.

Pleas for mercy were always heard, and that his heart could be touched by appeals based upon merit was most strikingly shown in the case of a 13 year-old girl who had gone to Jefferson City to beg clemency in the case of her brother, a prisoner in the penitentiary. She was dazed and bewildered by her surroundings, had difficulty stating the nature of her errand, and after several trips to the capitol was almost beside herself because of failure to see the executive. Quite by chance two men questioned her in the corridor and they soon ushered her before the Governor.

Mr. Folk put her at her ease as much as possible, heard her childish plea for patience and sympathy and gave her his word he would personally investigate the case.

He did, and after much trouble, circumstances were found that changed some of the aspects of the case. Pardon was out of the question but the governor found that he could conscientiously commute the sentence of twenty years to ten, and this was done.

Perhaps it was at the executive mansion that Governor Folk was seen at his best. Mr. and Mrs. Folk know how to entertain charmingly and make the guest welcome. At the mansion visitors were received with all the grace for which the southland is famous. Mrs. Folk became enormously popular socially in Jefferson City. Blessed with good looks and the daintiest tact, she made friends from the day of her arrival.

She visited among the ladies of the city, was largely identified with the church and charity work and had soon endeared herself to all. Fond of entertaining, it was seldom she was not looking after the welfare of one or more guests. She is an excellent musician, and most of the meetings of the Choral Symphony Society were held at the mansion.

It was while entertaining a number of ladies who had come from other cities to attend one of Mrs. Folk's musicales that the executive mansion caught fire. Governor Folk's courage and personal leadership of the firemen saved the historic house, likewise its valuable interior decorations. The self-possession of Governor and Mrs. Folk prevented a panic among their guests.

It is tradition in Missouri that there has only been one stingy governor of the State, and he lived generations ago and even his memory is almost forgotten. All the others left the office poorer than when they came. Governor Folk is no exception to this rule. The social demands made upon the governor and his household nesessarily means the expenditure of much money. The salary, $5,000 a year, is never sufficient to meet the outlay. While there was nothing in the way of extravagance at the mansion under Governor and Mrs. Folk, they liked to have it the meeting place of their friends. And it was.

An enduring monument to a man is the friendship he leaves when he departs from other work. Governor Folk left Jefferson City at the end of his term poorer in purse than when he took office; but he had builded for himself a tall shaft of the good opinion of those who had been his fellow-townsmen for four years, and this rested upon a firm foundation formed of their love and respect.

MEDITATIONS

(By T. W. C.)

It is better to fail by doing right than to succeed by doing wrong.

"It is better to go down on the great seas which human hearts were made to sail, than to rot at the wharves in ignoble anchorage."

If many of us—most of us, we are afraid—would count back the days to the last time we spoke words of praise to our nearest and dearest, we would have grace enough to be ashamed of ourselves.

Certainly there is something commendable in your husband, O wife. Then tell him so in a few hearty words, without any qualification or reservation. He will be the happier and so will you.

It is hard for men to learn by the experience of others. They insist on going through the sorrowful experience themselves. But lessons learned from experience and God's plan for softening our hearts into sympathy with others.

I spoke a kind word almost thoughtlessly, and a long time afterward one thanked me for it, with tears in his eyes. Then I thought since kindness costs so little and helps so much, why am I not always kind?

There are comforters that have been born into service, and disciplined, not so much through personal experience of trial, as through a perfect communion with the great peace-giver, in whom the springs of comfort rise. Love and sacrifice hold the meaning of all that is great and true and beautiful for one's own soul, and must hold the secret of all powers of helpfulness to the world. z

The thing that lasts in the universe is His kindness, which continues from everlasting to everlasting. What a revelation of God! Oh, dear friends, if only our hearts could open to the full acceptance of that thought, sorrow and care and anxiety, and every other form of trouble would fade away, and we should be at rest. The infinite, undying, imperishable love of God is mine. Older than the mountains, deeper than their roots, wider than the heavens and stronger than all sin, is the love of Christ.

If our hearts are filled with the glorious radiance of God's love, we shall most surely find all sorts of ways of manifesting it. It will color all our actions, down to the very touch of our hand, or the smile we give to the little stranger child in the streets.

And if we do but live in the consciousness of owing a great debt of love, and then strive day by day to discharge it, we shall owe nothing else besides. And only as we do this can we please Him and be like Him who, because we had nothing to pay, has so freely forgiven our great debt to him, and who has said "If ye love me, keep my commandments," one of which is, "Owe no man anything, but to love one another: for he that loveth anotner hath fulfilled the law."

TALE OF TWO CITIES AND MORAL

Field Secretary of National Rivers and Harbor Congress Tells of Waterway Improvement and Its Benefit.

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Richmond, Md., Sept. 2.—Wilmington already knows the benefits which come from waterway improvements. It goes without saying that her foreign commerce could not have reached a value of more than $32,000,000 in 1909, while her exports of cotton are greater than those of several other ports combined, if it had not been for the improvement of the channel leading to the sea.

There should be no let-up in the effort to secure a still further deepening and widening of this channel so that still larger ships can come freely to her wharves, and definite steps should be taken to secure the construction of terminals to be owned or controlled by the city and operated fundamentally for the interests of the city.

Recent consular reports reveal a startling contrast in the present conditions and the future prospects of two of the chief manufacturing cities of England. They lie but 70 miles apart, but the industries of the one are steadily expanding while those of the other are falling into decay.

No one knows how long ago the smelting ores and working of metals began at Birmingham, but years before our Declaration of Independence was signed her metal works was known throughout the world. Today Birmingham has a population of more than 600,000, and it would be natural to conclude that her industrial position had been established beyond the possibility of overthrow.

On the contrary, there is a serious crisis in the heavy branches of the iron and steel trade of Birmingham and the surrounding country. A number of the great iron plants have moved to the seaboard, others are preparing to follow, and still others have failed. One such property was recently put up at auction. The plant was as complete as any in the country, but the highest bid received was less than one-third the estimated value. Naturally the people of Birmingham are looking for the cause and seeking for a remedy. The iron and steel industry is the very foundation of their prosperity, and the loss of the foundation always means the fall of the superstructure.

Conditions are far different in Manchester, although it is not all sunshine even there. Most of the cotton mills had to run on short time last year, but that was due solely to the shortage in the cotton crop of the world. The significant thing is the steady increase in the number and variety of new industries. On one great tract of land, called the Trafford Park estate, no less than 73 firms or corporations have secured sites in recent years for the establishment of industries, many of them of immense size. Similar developments are taking place on other tracts of land in and around Manchester. Most significant of all, especially to Birmingham, is the purchase of 90 acres of ground on which the erection of a great iron and steel works has already begun. The addition of great industries means growth in population, and when the pending annexation of the adjoining town of Salford has been carried out, Manchester will have a population of more than 1,000,000 souls.

The disastrous conditions in Birmingham are due, not to a general depression in the iron and steel trade, for that did not exist, but to high freight rates. Birmingham is only about 70 miles from Bristol and 85 to 90 miles from Liverpool, but it is "not mileage but cost of transportation that constitutes the true commercial measure of distance." Repeated efforts to secure a reduction of railway rates having failed, it is now recognized that the only real remedy lies in a radical improvement of the waterways leading to the seaboard. It has already proposed that the towns interested shall advance $5,000,000, without interest, to aid in the construction of a big canal.

The history of Manchester shows that Birmingham could well afford to advance much more than that. Thirty years ago the condition of Manchester was far worse than that of Birmingham today. The building of the Manchester ship canal was not undertaken as a diversion; it was a case of life or death, and Manchester chose to live. The total amount spent up to December 31, 1910, in the construction of the canal and the creation of port facilities amounted to almost $82,000,000, of which the city of Manchester subscribed $25,000,000. Manchester, which up to 17 years ago was an inland city, is now the fourth port in the United Kingdom, with a foreign commerce greater than that of any port in the United States except New York City.

What Birmingham will do is for Birmingham to say, but the moral of this Tale of Two Cities is not hard to see. More than natural resources, more than the combination of capital and skill in manufactures, more than the prestige of centuries of success, more than any other factor, more, sometimes, than all other factors combined, the cost of transportation determines the success or the failure, the prosperity or the adversity, the growth or the decay of industries and cities.

It is costly transportation that, like a hidden cancer, is eating out the industrial life of Birmingham; it is cheap transportation, that, like a mighty magnet, is drawing industries and population to Manchester; and the cheapest of all transportation is water transportation.

S. A. THOMPSON,
Field Secretary, National Rivers and Harbors Congress.

Essence of Fine Breeding.

In families well ordered there is always one firm and sweet temper, which controls without seeming to dictate. The essence of all fine breeding is in the gift of oscillation. A man who possesses every other title to our respect besides that of courtesy, is in danger of forfeiting them all. A rude manner renders its owner always liable to affront. He is never without dignity who avoids wounding the dignity of others.

Work and Prayer.

Work with all your might; but trust not in the least in your work. Pray with all your might for the blessing of God; but work, at the same time, with all diligence, with all patience, with all perseverance. Pray, then, and work. Work and pray. And still again pray and work, and this all the days of your life.—George Muller.

EDUCATIONAL NEEDS OF NEGRO

Paper of W. P. Evans, of Laurinburg, Read Before the National Negro Congress, Denver, Colorado, August 14, 1911.

To the Second National Negro Congress, Denver, Colorado.

Greeting:—It is with profound regrets that I find myself, on account of strenuous business engagements, unable as a delegate, commissioned by His Excellency Governor Kitchin, of the great State of North Carolina, to be present with you on so momentous occasion.

However, I cannot remain silent in advancing my endorsements to all that your great body will say and do for the great Educational, Industrial, Commercial, Constructive and Moral uplift of our race. And more than this I would say, that from direct contact and business intercourse, as well as from a thoughtful study of conditions and inclinations of the young negro, that the time is ripe—yes, more, that because of our position here in the South as industrial factors, a different view of the manner of educating the colored youth must be taken.

In North Carolina (and I believe the same is true in every Southern State) the greater percentage of students of our colleges go from the country districts and small towns, where we have an average of only four months of school in the year. This great body of students because of the meagre advantages of schooling at home, rush off to the colleges too soon, and can only enter the preparatory departments, there to remain three years in a department that is only equal to a good eight months school at home.

While this is true and bad, yet it is not the worst feature of their condition. The great body of children leaving home so young are deprived of that strong necessary and fundamental essential to character building and industrial training, viz: Home training and fireside influence.

Now the remedy: The parents and guardians of this great body of students aforesaid spend per head in preparing and keeping a child in school $8.40 per month, plus the loss of the child's aid in the discharge of home duties before and after school each day. This is the cost to enter the prepartory department of the colleges.

I claim that if the parents and guardians could be influenced by the ministers, educators and leaders to pay two dollars per month (as against $8.40 per month) to the county treasure of each county school district, thereby supplementing the public school fund, that they would get for their children an eight months term of school right at home, where the parents would have the chance daily to assist the teacher in the moral and industrial uplift of the child, and besides would get service from the child before the school bell rings every morning and after school closes every afternoon, as well as service all day long every Saturday, making the child perfectly familiar with the way to do things neatly and thoroughly.

This service obtained would help the child and would be worth more than two dollars per month paid by the parent into the county school fund.

All over the Southland today there is a great demand by the white families, and, by the way, some colored families, for young colored girls with plain educations and domestic training, for house keepers—women who are trustworthy and energetically industrial. They want these girls to come into their homes worthy to take charge from the front door to the cook room, carrying the keys and look after, do and have the laundry done, the plain sewing and darning for the children—in short, relieve the Madams of their cares. These positions will pay our good women by far, better wages, give them better contact, increase and improve better and kinder relations between the races, than any four month county school in any county of our Southland. Therefore, all need not be teachers.

To show you there is a growing demand for such an education North and South, Mrs. Ella Flagg Young, superintendent of Chicago public schools, is planning a school where in connection with a plain education, the girls will be taught all sorts of domestic work, plain and fancy needle work, darning and mending, so that they can go into any home and earn a living.

I recall to your minds the fact that we in the South are the industrials, as are the foreigners in the North. And for the present at least, the exceptionally bright students would do well to pursue college courses, while the masses obtain industrial education to suit the work that their hands will find to do.

In conclusion, I submit that we as a race are not ready for the collegiate education of the masses, and the old saying, "Sauce for the white gander should be sauce for the colored gander," is no longer true nor practical in an educational application. The positions of the President of the United States, senators and congressmen, Governors of States, legislators and Mayors of municipalities, presidents of railroads, bank cashiers, yes, thousands and thousands of exalted positions and open door employments for the white collegiate is the reason why "sauce" must be prepared for the white "gander." The non-possession of any of these positions, together with the non co-operative and non-coalition spirit of the negro to do business and thereby provide employment and sustenance for their educated, is the truest and strongest reason why it is unnecessary now to prepare "sauce for the colored gander."

It is sad but true that the industrial, constructive, hygienic, physical and commercial progress of the negro today is not keeping pace with his educational progress, for if it were, the hundreds and thousands of colleges bred negroes who are, in point of education, equal to the white boys, would not be waiters and hangers-on in pool rooms, and on street corners waiting for something to turn up, but would be like his white brother graduate, bank presidents, congressmen, Wall street financiers, stock brokers and clerks—if the commercial and constructive progress of the race was equal to the educational progress. The "want" columns of all the white papers are filled with advertisements for more educated men to fill vacancies; the "want" columns of the colored papers are filled with advertisements wanting more jobs for the alreay unemployed educated colored man.

Very truly yours,
W. P. EVANS.

Tin and Crime.

One hundred and seventeen persons, chiefly habitual criminals, were banished for life from Perak last year. Of these ninety-nine were Chinese, twelve of whom had been convicted of participating in unlawful societies. It was discovered that the number of prison offenses varied in indirect ratio with the price of tin. When tin was high and the industry accordingly prosperous, inmates of jails were few, and vice versa.

Clean the Feedplate.

Your sewing machine will last longer and run more easily if, especially after working on woolen goods, you clean out the feedplate. Take out the screw that holds it down and lift it off; then, with a long pin, pick out the lint and clear the needle slot. You will be amazed at the amount of lint that can accumulate there, and when you have replaced the plate and the screw, at the increased efficiency of the machine.

NEW SOUTHERN INDUSTRIALS

Acquisition of Lands by Westerners For Developmental Enterprises —Manufacturing Projects for Week as Reported

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Baltimore, Sept. 2.—Among the striking evidences of deep and wide interest in Southern development is the almost daily acquisition of some large tract of land by Western people for colonization purposes. At the same time there is no slackening in movements by individuals or companies for the utilization in various lines of industry of the mineral and timber resources of the South.

Among the many industrial and other developmental enterprises in that section announced in this week's issue of the Manufacturers Record are the following:

Marsh Creek Splint & Gas Coal Company, Charleston, W. Va., was organized with $100,000 capital stock and leased 2,740 acres of coal land for development.

Shreveport Fruit Jar & Bottle Works Company, Shreveport, La., was organized by Anderson (Indiana) manufacturers to establish plant with 10 hours capacity of 72,000 jars, etc.

Gardner Extract Company, Basic City, Va., was chartered with $50,000 capital stock to build plant with daily capacity of 75 to 100 barrels of tanning extract.

Williamson Veneer Company, Newport News, Va., was chartered with $50,000 capital stock to manufacture veneers.

Huntington Clay Products Company, Huntington, W. Va., was awarded contract for construction of $63,000 fire-proof building which will be equipped with machinery for a daily capacity of 100,000 paving and building bricks.

Farmers & Merchants Cotton Oil Company, Holdenville, Okla. will build cotton oil mill to cost $30,000.

Delta Planting Company, Scott, Miss., will erect cotton oil mill to cost $60,000.

Newton Oil & Fertilizer Company, Newton, N. C., will build cotton oil mill to cost $30,000.

Baldwin Lumber Company, of LaFayette, La., will clear and develop about 9,000 acres of land for development by cultivation; will plant sugar cane, hay and corn, build saw mill, contsurct 12 mile railway, etc.

Corbitt Automobile Company, of Henderson, N. C., was organized with $250,000 capital stock to build automobile works.

Exposition Cotton Mills, Atlanta, Ga., awarded contract for construction of $20,000 loom shed and will install 10,000 spindles with accompanying looms, etc.

Southern Coal & Ice Company, Macon, Ga., was organized and will build plant with daily capacity of 85 tons of ice; awarded machinery contracts at $85,000.

Crystal Ice and Ice Cream Company of Lexington, N. C., was chartered with $50,000 capital stock to manufacture ice and ice cream.

Hamilton Orchard Heater Company, Wheeling, W. Va., was incorporated with $30,00 capital stock to manufacture orchard heaters.

Tomlinson Chair Manufacturing Co., High Point, N. C., awarded contract for construction of 2 factory buildings costing $30,000.

Titusville Fruit & Farm Lands Co., Titusville, Fla., recently incorporated with $30,000 capital stock, plans to establish saw mill and rock crushing plant, construct 50 miles of road, build town on Indian river, etc., in connection with the development of 22,000 acres of land.

The Phosphate Mining Company, of Nichols, Fla., and New York, was reported as to invest $250,00 for rebuilding its phosphate plant, burned recently at a loss of $75,000.

Hughes Grate Shaker Company, of Birmingham, Ala., was chartered with $300,000 capital stock to manufacture grate shakers.

Virginia Quarries Company, Harrisonburg, Va., was chartered with $50,000 capital stock to quarry stone, manufacture lime, etc.

WINTER COVER CROPS

Object Lesson As to Value of Organic Matter of Soil

(Special Star Correspondence.)

Raleigh, N. C., Sept. 2.—The unprecedented drought which prevails in some sections of the State is an object lesson as to the value of organic matter or humus in the soil, and it is a well known fact that in addition to other desirable qualities decaying organic matter or humus increases the water holding capacity of all soils.

For the protection of the soil and to provide against the disastrous effects of a possible drought next Summer farmers should put in Winter cover crops. The best crops for this purpose are the clovers, vetches, and small grain crops. On land where the clover and vetches will grow successfully they are better than rye or other small grain crops, but where they will not grow it will be advisable to sow rye.

For best results these crops should be put in as quickly as possible, especially in the Western part of the State. Prepare the land by disking and harrowing and sow 15 pounds of clean crimson clover seed per acre, and if convenient, sow also 300 pounds Acid Phosphate per acre, as that will help to insure a stand of clover. Some sow in addition to this one pound of turnip seed per acre; preferably the Cowhorn variety, claiming that the turnip leaves protect the young clover plants in their early stages. It can do no harm to sow the turnip seed as these crops are intended to plow under next Spring to improve the soil.

The seed should be covered with a cultivator or with a harrow about one inch deep. In the Western part of the State these should be put in at once so as to make sufficient growth to withstand the Winter. In the central part of the State they should be put in not later than the last of September, while in the eastern and warmer sections of the State they can be put in as late as the middle of October.

In the Coastal Plain section Bur Clover is also fine for a Winter cover crop. The seed of this is usually purchased in the rough or bur and should be planted at the rate of from three to four bushels of the burs per acre, and covered about one inch deep. These should go in at once. Acid phosphate can be used with these to advantage.

Hairy vetch makes a fine Winter cover crop, and will succeed in almost any part of the State on well drained land, especially where Partridge or Mountain peas grow. If sown alone sow at the rate of 30 pounds of seed per acre, and if with rye or other small grain, one bushel of small grain and 20 pounds of vetch per acre. They should be sown at about the same time as crimson clover and covered from one to two inches deep.

Where none of these crops will grow successfully sow rye at the rate of one and a half bushels per acre. You want a heavy growth to protect the land and to add a great quantity of vegetable matter when turned under next Spring.

Turn under two or three weeks before you wish to plant the crop which is to follow. Rye, especially, should not be permitted to get woody before turning under. Better turn it under as soon as the heads begin to appear than to wait until it is grown. If it gets full grown and dry weather follows it would leave the land so open and loose that the crop following it would suffer more than if no rye was put on the land.

All these crops should be disked well and throughly cut up before plowing under next Spring. Good results may be expected only when they are well mixed with the soil before the crop is plantd.

If any one doubts the benefits to be had from these Winter cover crops let him prepare one acre of average land and treat it as described above. Next Spring plant another acre by the side of it that has had no Winter cover crop and cultivate both alike. One demonstration like this will usually convince a person of the value of Winter cover crops.

Seed for any of the above mentioned crops can be had from almost any reputable seedman, but buy only the best and freest from impurities. The best are none too good.

FARMERS NEED DOVES.

Birds Beat Best Farm Hand—Southern Shoots Hurt Crops.

New York, Sept. 2.—Backed by almost every agricultural organigation in the country, special efforts to check the slaughter of turtle doves, that destroy thousands of weed seeds at one meal, have been begun today at the headquarters of the National Association of Audubon Societies in this city.

Before these beautiful birds fly South, after a summer of wholesale extermination of the weeds that menace every crop on the continent, it is planned to try to avert the murderous fusillade that always butchers millions of them across the Southern and Southwestern States. As a most important step in this direction, the Audubon workers have just succeeded in having a State game commission, cupporting a strong force of wardens established in Georgia.

That each member of this popular species of wild dove can destroy more weeds in a day than the most vigorous farm hand equipped with a hoe is being demonstrated to the farmers in every section by recent investigation of the Government Biological Survey. In the stomachs of three turtle doves alone, 23,100 seeds of hawk weed foxtail, wood sorrel, paspalum and other damaging growths have been discovered, plucked from the fields as one dinner by the persistent feathered weeders. Every day in the year these doves are shown to take 64 per cent. of their food in weed seeds from farm land, and with each stroke of their nimble bills the ripening germ of a rank weed is forever killed. A considerable amount of the half billion dollars that the farmers of America pay each year for labor might be saved by the natural increase of the dove weed killers, which is heavily offset by their wide-spread shooting, according to reports that are being received at Audubon headquarters here.

Over the peanut and wheat fields of the South as many as 4,000 turtle doves are known to have been butchered at a single shooting, where the birds were lured oftentimes by illegal baiting. In Texas, Kansas and Oklahoma a fight is already being made by the farmers to have these weed seed eaters protected, while the people of California have just defended a close season on shooting...

"We believe we can count upon the support of everyone interested in the crops, the whole country over, in our efforts to save the economically invaluable turtle doves from destruction," said T. Gilbert Pearson, secretary of the National Association of Audubon Societies, at its headquarters, 1974 Broadway, today. "When the people of the South and Southwest come to realize the damage that this bird-butchery does to the country's crops, I feel sure they will join with every agricultural interest to help us preserve a bird that is as beautiful and generally beloved by all Americans, as financially helpful to the farmer."

Singular.

We noted yesterday the drowning of a boy named Johnny Ward in Mill river, and stated his body had not been found. That night a man who is familiar with the circumstances of the case had a dream in which he saw the boy, so he states, clinging to a post under a building. Yesterday a careful search for the body was made, and it was found under Daniels' mill, on Mill street, the arms of the lad firmly clasped about a piece of timber used for a support to the building The finding of the body in the position as seen in the dream is singular.—Hartford Courant.

The Height of Happiness at His Age.

In what pleasure we find our greatest enjoymen depends much on our age; at one time of life we may like one thing best, at another time another. Here was a small boy rolling along the sidewalk in one of those hand-operated wagons which he was propelling with one hand, while in the other he held an ice cream cone which he was eating as he rolled. His was probably the highest attainable happiness at his age.

Cat Never In Danger.

Her love for robins nearly got Mrs. Antoinette Perkins of Hackensack, N J., into grave trouble the other day, for the three bullets she fired from a revolver at a cat that was killing a robin on her lawn came near killing three persons. One bullet went through the wall of a neighboring house and passed close to the head of a person sitting at the dining room table. The two other bullets whistled past the heads of two boys who were passing the Perkins home. The offending cat escaped unhurt.

THE VENERABLE DR. KINGSBURY

Makes His Last Contribution to Public Press in Fayetteville Observer—Personal and Biographical—Interest.

(Fayetteville Observer.)

We have received the appended communication from the venerable Doctor T. B. Kingsbury, for so many years the distinguished editor of the Wilmington Star and then of the Wilmington Messenger.

It is, says Dr. Kingsbury, the last public statement which he shall make, and the announcement cannot be received without emotion by patriotic North Carolinians. It is probable—in fact, we think it quite certain—that, with a few exceptions, he has done more for North Carolina and the Democratic party without reward of office than any other of her sons.

When Vance was being hounded by the machine in 1893-94, Dr. Kingsbury refused to go with the tide, and stood firm for the great Carolinian and his "immortal principles of Democracy."

We offer to our friend the hope that peace and contentment, along with the other "compensations of old age" may be his for years yet to come.

Wilmington, N. C., Aug. 29, 1911.

Major E. J. Hale, Editor, Fayetteville Daily Observer, Fayetteville, N. C.

Dear Sir:—At request of my grandfather, Dr. T. B. Kingsbury, I am sending you the enclosed article (being his last contribution to the public and closing his connection with journalism), which he wishes published in your paper, the Fayetteville Daily Observer. He states that he is sending this to you because of your uniform kindness to him, for which he feels very grateful.

Yours very truly,

R. A. KINGSBURY, JR.

Personal and Biographical.

On yesterday I entered upon my eighty-fourth year. I was born in Raleigh, N. C., on the 28th day of August, 1828.

The first article that I ever wrote for a newspaper was written from Raleigh on July 5th, 1845. It appeared in the Oxford Ledger and was a short account of the celebration of the Fourth of July in Raleigh, which was held at the First Presbyterian Church, the address having been made by Duncan K. MacRae, then a prominent young lawyer and afterwards distinguished for oratory and popularity.

The next fifteen years I wrote quite a number of articles for newspapers. In November, 1857, I began the publication of the Oxford Leisure Hour, a literary weekly, which achieved considerable reputation. A short time after I received probably two of the best notices of any during my career from two distinguished men of letters, who were editing magazines in the South; John R. Thompson, editor of the Literary Messenger, published in Richmond, Va., and Paul H. Hayne, who was editing, at the same time, Russell's magazine, a monthly containing some ninety pages. He and Mr. Thompson both gave me most cordial notices and I have rarely ever had such pleasant references to myself in all of my long career since as an editor.

My first publication of a monthly began in 1867. It was a literary journal purely. I continued to edit it for over a year, and not long after that was invited to go to Memphis, which invitation I accepted, remaining there for some seven months. While at Memphis I furnished contributions for over a month to a leading Baptist paper.

Upon my return to North Carolina, which was at the very end of that year, I was soon after invited by Mr. Josiah Turner to take a place on the Raleigh Daily Sentinel as co-editor, which I did. I was connected with that paper in all for some two and a half or three years, and have been connected all together with weeklies and dailies for many years.

While in Raleigh I also edited Our Living and Our Dead, Colonel Pool's war monthly. He also published an education journal, which I edited.

My next adventure editorially, of any importance, began in 1876 with The Morning Star, of Wilmington, and I continued with that paper as its main editor for twelve years and some eight months.

I next was connected with the Wilmington Messenger, a daily, and was with that paper for some thirteen years or more. In addition to my servics here as editor on two dailies I had other connections with weekly papers—not at the same time, but at intervals—and I think I have been associated in the editorship of probably as many as four or five weeklies; so it seems my editorial life has been sufficiently protracted to prevent my friends from forgetting that I existed as an editor or ever endeavored to do some service to the State in that particular.

I contributed somewhat to Dr. Deems' superior paper published in New York City not long after the war. I also wrote a little for the Raleigh Christian Advocate, whose editor was sick and absent for a month, and, additionally, I wrote a few articles for the Raleigh Biblical Recorder. I also edited for six months the Oxford Torchlight, a popular weekly. In addition, I contributed somewhat at times to the Tarboro Southerner, the Weldon News, and a Petersburg weekly, the name of which I have forgotten. I also edited the Warrenton Indicator for over a year. This was a literary journal, published weekly, and was of some popularity and interest to the public. There are a few other papers I might name, but I forbear. The list of my contributions covers a space of some thirty years.

This, the last contribution I shall ever give to the public, is being dictated by me to a grandson of mine. I have taken the liberty, as far as I could, to repeat or reproduce some of my newspaper labors, but, of course, it seems very incomplete, in addition to being very uninteresting and not well connected.

T. B. KINGSBURY.

Wilmington, N. C., Aug. 29, 1911.

P. S.—It occurred to me that I would add a rather long postcript to the above:

I entered Lovejoy's Military Academy in July, 1845, at Raleigh. The only office of any kind I ever held was the captaincy in this school. I never sought it or any other office in all of my long life. In 1846 the greatest Northern man, Hon. Daniel Webster, visited Raleigh and was the guest of the eminent Governor, William A. Graham, of Orange county. William Henry Haywood, of Raleigh, gave Mr. Webster an elegant entertainment Owing to my Captaincy I received an invitation to attend, which I was fortunate enough to accept. I heard a part of the conversation between Mr. Webster and three citizens of Raleigh, Weston R. Gales, John H. Manly and the then State Treasurer.

I spent several sessions at the university of North Carolina later. I had no distinction whatever while there; the truth is, I did not study. I was a member of the Dialectic Society. To my great surprise a composition which I read to the members was by unanimous vote placed in the archives, the first one in ten years as the members were informed, the last being Calvin H. Wiley, afterwards distinguished as Superintendent of Public Instruction. The two critics of the Society were Washington C. Carr, later State Geologist and perhaps the ablest of all who have since filled his place, and the late President of the University, Dr. Kemp P. Battle, a distinguished scholar and highly esteemed.

WORLD'S RECORDS

What Curtiss Aeroplanes Accomplished at Great Chicago Meet

(Special Star Correspondence.)

New York, Sept. 2.—The first great aviation meet held in this country, where no guarantees were given and where in order to get the prizes the aviators wre obliged to fly for them, has just closed at Chicago. In the opinions of all the authorities on aviation in this country, as well as the entire press of Chicago, the Chicago meet was productive of the best flying in the history of aviation. All of the great aviators of the United States and several of those from Europe took part, and it was the most representative list of flyers ever assembled at an air meet.

The Curtiss areoplanes and the Curtiss aviators were uniformly successful at the Chicago meet. There were nine Curtiss machines entered, including the hydro-aeroplane, and these machines went through the entire ten days of flying without an accident of any sort. This is what the Curtiss aeroplane and the Curtiss aviators did at Chicago.

Lincoln Beachey, 60-horse power Curtiss biplane, established new world altitude record of 11,628 feet.

Lincoln Beachey, Curtiss 60-horse power biplane, established a world's record for quick climbing for biplanes —1,600 feet in 3 minutes and 45 seconds.

Lincoln Beachey, 60-horse power Curtiss biplane, won open passenger carrying speed event against all other machines entered.

Lincoln Beachey, 60-horse power Curtiss biplane, established new world's record for gliding without power, descending from 11,628 feet with power cut off.

Hugh Robinson, flying a Curtiss hydro-aeroplane, made ten days flights over lake and land, and was the first to the rescue of Rene Simon, who fell into the lake with his monoplane. He also flew to the rescue of St. Croix Johnstone when his monoplane fell from a height of 1,000 feet into the lake. Robinson demonstrated the usefulness of the hydro-aeroplaneas a life saver by arriving on the scene in both instances within two minutes after the monoplanes had struck the water He alighted within a few feet of the wreck in both instances and stood ready to rescue the aviators.

On August 16th, Lincoln Beachey and Jimmy Ward demonstrated that the Curtiss biplane will fly in winds which no other aeroplane can combat. From 3:30 until 5 o'clock on that day Beachey and Ward remained in the air continuously in the face of a wind which was so dangerous that no other machines could arise from the ground. Seven biplanes of a well-known make attempted to go up during this time, but all were forced to the ground and three of them badly damaged.

Notwithstanding these conditions Mr. Beachey ascended to a height of 7,919 feet, and won the altitude prize for the day, the endurance prize for the day, the speed prize for the day, and the cross water race of 15 mues for that day, making a clean sweep of the four events. Jimmy Ward, who stood fourth in the contest for duration for the ten days, with a record of 22 hours, covered a greater distance than any other aviator taking part in the meet. He flew a 60-horse power Curtiss biplane at the rate of approximately 60 miles an hour for the entire 22 hours, which would give him a total distance covered of 1,320 miles.

The Curtiss machines and the Curtiss fliers won a greater proportion of the prize money than any other aviator, or body of aviators, taking part in the meet.

Graft.

Exulting in his suddenly returned strength, Samson was about to push the pillars from under the temple "Ha," he chuckled, as the roof toppled in, "couldn't have done it if the contractor had built this temple according to specifications."

SUCCEEDING IN PITTSBURG

Rev. H. W. Hanson, Wilmington Boy, Head of Large Lutheran Congregation in Pittsburg—Has Handsome Building.

The Rev. Henry W. A. Hanson is one of the Wilmington boys in Pennsylvania, and although not yet 30 years old, has won for himself a place in the very front ranks of the Lutheran ministers of Pittsburg.

Rev. Mr. Hanson is known as one of the most brilliant speakers and clearest thinkers in the Lutheran pulpit in the city. His congregation has had a growth unequalled in his denomination in the entire city. The following from the Pittsburg Gazette, which publishes an excellent likeness of Mr. Hanson, will be read with interest by numerous friends in Wilmington:

"Final arrangements have been made for the laying of the cornerstone for the new edifice of St. Luke's Lutheran church, Federal street extension and Perrysville avenue, North Side, tomorrow afternoon at 3:30 o'clock. When completed the new home of the congregation, of which the Rev. Henry W. A. Hanson is the pastor, will have, it is said, a larger seating capacity than any Lutheran church in Western Pennsylvania. Its estimated value with other holdings, of the congregation, will be about $65,000, and in view of one $10,000 contribution, and other gifts, the members will have to assume a mortgage of only $25,000. The donor of the $10,000 has requested that his name be withheld until the dedication of the new building next June.

"The structure will be built chiefly of Beaver county sand stone, and will be octagonal in design. The main auditorium with the Sunday school room will rival in size and comfort those of any church in Pittsburgh. These will be so constructed that they may be thrown into one large room. The former is designed to seat 650 persons and the latter 600 persons.

To Be Finished Next June.

"Ground was broken for the foundations June 1, last, the eleventh anniversary of the church, and the building will be completed upon the twelfth birthday. The building committee has about $17,000 on hand for current expenses. The old building, valued at $12,000, has been moved back and will be used as a gymnasium. A feature of the new church will be the great pipe organ to be installed. This will be equipped with melodious chimes and cost $4,000.

"When Mr. Hanson assumed charge of the congregation in 1908, it numbered 150 members. This was increased steadily and 450 persons are now enrolled. The paster recently received a call from a wealthy eastern congregation at twice his present salary. It was rumored he would accept, but since he has announced that he preferred to remain in the Perrysville avenue district.

"The pastors who will assist at the cornerstone laying include the Rev. John McIvor, pastor of the Watson Memorial Presbyterian church, prayer; the Rev. W. I. Gus, president of the Pittsburgh synod, scripture reading; the Rev. Dr. Alonzo J. Turkle, of Trinity Lutheran church, address; the Rev. Dr. C. B. King, of Bethel Lutheran church, address, and the Rev. Dr. D. A. McClenahan, senior professor of the United Presbyterian Biblical Seminary, address.

"John Seifert, a member of the church, who recently returned from taking a course at the Leipsic Conservatory of Music, will sing a solo and the choir will render other music.

CHILD MORTALITY IN SUMMER

Every summer the newspapers are full of horrifying stories of the death list among infants and children and extremely old people. In nursing infants and children still being fed largely on milk this is usually due to the quality of the milk itself, and in aged people to a general weakening of the system because of extreme heat. Still, a great many of the deaths are due to digestive trouble, and these can usually be avoided by the timely use of a reliable laxative-tonic. There is no remedy for this purpose that lends itself better to the uses of children and aged people than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which for a generation has been the reliance of thousands of mothers and which is gaining in favor every year. This remedy, unlike a purgative, salt, laxative water or "infant medicine," contains nothing that is dangerous to the health of the weakest or youngest person, and its repeated use does not form a habit, as is the case with narcotic remedies for children. Go to your druggist this very day and buy a 50 cent or $1.00 bottle, and like thousands of other parents, keep it on hand for an emergency. You can obtain a FREE SAMPLE BOTTLE by addressing

Methods of Sabbath Counting.

While the Egyptians named the days of their week, the Jews numbered them only, the fir day of the week being always the day after the weekly Sabbath. Fifteen different methods of Sabbath counting are known to have existed during the last four thousand years, including every day of the week, weeks of different and varying length, from six to ten days, and months of various and varying length.

Annual Furniture Sale

Eye-Opening Prices---Thursday, Aug. 31

We will put on in full force our Annual September Furniture Sale. As all four former sales, this is a bona fide low priced sale. No faking, no false claims, no misrepresentations to deceive the purchasing public. We are here to stay, to make good and prove every advertised article and price. Three features that should appeal to the honest buyer who is looking for honest goods from reliable home merchants.

First, We have for several seasons brought to our customers unheard of values in samples and special purchases made at the great Furniture Exposition at discounts, which enabled us to sell them to our customers at, and and sometimes below factory price. This year we were fortunate in getting a large number of very choice pieces.

Second. We never allow goods to remain on our floor to get old. We have a complete stock of regular goods which we will dispose of during this sale at actual cost to make room for our new fall stock.

Third. Our buyer has just returned from the Northern markets, where he bought largely of specials to throw in and round up and tone up the stock which will be sold during this sale, with no object of profit making—only to add ginger to the sale and make it a bigger success.

The terms are strictly cash and we trust that purchasers will not embarrass us by asking that these goods be charged at these prices. Arrangements can be made for satisfactory time purchases.
